CANADIAN RESORT IS RAZED BY FIRE

Police Hold Back Great Crowds Near British Parliament

Thousands of Guards Protected Buildings as Attempts Made to Stage Big Unemployed Demonstration

PARADE LEADER IS IN CUSTODY

Canadian Press and Associated Press
London, Nov. 1.—Mounted police stationed in the alleys and corners about Parliament Square swarmed out into Whitehall to-night and began thrusting back a great crowd assembled before the Houses of Parliament for a demonstration by the unemployed.

FROM ALL DIRECTIONS

It was about 8 o'clock when the bobbies appeared from all directions. With the fear of the man on foot for the man on horse, the crowd fell back.

Up to then there had been no indication there was any organized spirit among the crowd which might lead to repetition of the disturbances which occurred last week in Hyde Park and Trafalgar Square.

SCENE IN COMMONS

Meantime, inside the Commons, there was a brief disturbance when a man rose in the public gallery during debate on the Ottawa tariffs.

HUSTLED OUT

Shaking his fist at the speaker, he shouted: "Abolish the means test, in the name of millions of unemployed workers I demand the workers be received in this House."

Others hustled him out, but at the door he turned and shouted: "Release Hanington."

Then the House went on with its business.

Canadian Press
London, Nov. 1.—Hundreds of police were stationed in alleyways and around corners in the vicinity of St. James's Palace and the Parliament Buildings as darkness fell this evening.

The streets about the Parliament Buildings were crowded with unemployed and spectators, for W. A. L. Hanington, Communist agent who was arrested this morning, had threatened to lead fifty of his men to the Commons and demand a hearing on the grievances of the jobless to-night.

Hanington was in the hands of the police, but his lieutenants said they would carry out his programme despite his incarceration.

INCITING TO MUTINY

Hanington, who declared his delegation would demand revision of the dole system in defiance of the trade union that any petition to the House must be presented by a member of Parliament, was arrested on a charge of inciting to mutiny among the London police.

He was lodged in the Bow Street police station pending arraignment.

It was charged specifically he had attempted to cause dissension among the London police during the demonstration at Trafalgar Square on Sunday afternoon.

Other leaders of the unemployed declared the demonstration scheduled for to-night would be carried out despite Hanington's arrest.

LIMITS ARE SET FOR WHEAT PREFERENCE

Britain-bound Canadian Grain Barred From Storage in U.S. Elevators By Decision of London Government

By GEORGE HAMILTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Nov. 1.—Canadian wheat stored in United States elevators and from there reexported to the United Kingdom, will not be entitled to the six-cent preference on Canadian wheat decided on at the Ottawa Imperial Conference. This announcement was made in the Ottawa Commons to-day by L. Horne-Bellish, a government spokesman.

An amendment, moved by Sir J. Sandeman Allen, member of the Union Government, asking that grain consigned from an American port and certified by the Canadian Government officer to have been grown in Canada should be entitled to the preference was defeated 247 to 155.

The government declined to accept the amendment.
Mr. Horne-Bellish declared the government had two reasons for refusing the amendment: first, because the customs procedure would identify the wheat, and secondly on the grounds of policy. It had always been a matter of policy, he declared, to insist that goods which were to enjoy the preference must not only be grown in the empire, but must be consigned from an empire country.

EXCHANGE DOLLAR 90 3/4 CENTS TO-DAY

New York, Nov. 1.—Bullish tendencies in Canadian and British currencies on the local foreign exchange market to-day brought the pound sterling to a close of $3.31 1/2 for cables, 2 1/2 cents higher than yesterday's close. The Canadian dollar closed 1/2 cent higher at 90 3/4 cents.

MORE WORKERS ON PAYROLLS

Ottawa Figures Received Here Show Increase at Beginning of October

Recent Business Stability in Sharp Contrast With Previous Decline

Although employment in Canada has usually shown a falling off in October for the last eleven years records have been compiled, it showed an improvement last month, according to a bulletin on the subject received from Ottawa to-day by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

At the beginning of October there was an increase of nearly 8,000 persons on the payroll of 8,000 firms reporting. The exact figures show that 8,029 firms which employed 790,967 workers at the beginning of September had 796,165 persons on their staffs at the beginning of this month. The most pronounced gains since September 1 were in manufacturing, notably in vegetable food and textile factories. In the latter the increase was the second largest on record for October 1. Improvement was also indicated in logging, mining, transportation, highway construction, and trade. In some of these industries the increases were eased in character. On the other hand, communications, building construction and services reported reduced activity.

SEARCH FOR BOY LEADS TO NEW YORK

Canadian Press
New York, Nov. 1.—Hon. John H. McMillan, Manitoba Minister of Mines, applied to the New York bureau of the New York State Department of Social Services for aid in search for his son, a fourteen-year-old boy who disappeared in Winnipeg October 22.

Mr. McMillan attributed the boy's disappearance to a wanderlust and said he had told the youth to Chicago, only to learn the boy had left there Sunday, ostensibly for New York.

NEW METHOD FOR BUDGET

Strike Tax Rate First and How to the Line Mayor Orders

Victoria will "cut its coat according to its cloth" in preparation of the tentative budget for 1933, it was revealed to-day by Mayor Leeming.

The Mayor explained that he had asked the city comptroller to strike the tax rate first and then whittle the estimates of expenditure until they conformed with a total measuring up to the rate.

The usual procedure in preparing estimates is to determine what expenditures are necessary, and when the total necessary money is ascertained the mill rate is fixed accordingly.

Something For City Fathers To Think About

PACTS SAID TO FAIL TO MEET FARMERS' NEEDS

Relief Agrarians Sought Will Not Come Out of Ottawa Imperial Conference Says President at United Farmers of Manitoba Convention

Delegates Hear W. J. Ward's Views

By George Finlay, Canadian Press Staff Writer
Dauphin, Man., Nov. 1.—The Imperial Conference failed to bring any relief to Canadian farmers, W. J. Ward, president of the United Farmers of Manitoba, declared in his presidential address at the annual convention, opened here to-day.

"The only class in Canada who may benefit from the conference," said Mr. Ward, "is the manufacturers."

Premier R. B. Bennett's warning to the delegates at Ottawa was "We dare not fail," but they did fail the Canadian farmer," was the declaration of the U.F.M. president.

TARIFFS HIGHER

He said: "A preferential tariff on Canadian wheat in the British market can have but one effect, and that is to start a vicious circle of falling prices on the world markets, with no compensating factors whatsoever. A study of the tariff schedules of the Canadian-British agreement reveals our customs tariffs are really higher in the aggregate to-day than they were before the conference took place."

"The position the farmers find themselves in to-day is caused mainly through the wide disparity between the value of farm produce and the cost of production," said Mr. Ward. "The plight of agriculturists should command the sympathy and undivided support of every class in the community."

LOSE HOMES

"Municipal taxes are at least 60 per cent higher than is possible for the average farm to pay. Unable to pay their taxes, farmers have been driven from their farms and homes."

HITCH-HIKING AROUND WORLD

T. F. MacKeown, in Rags When He Reached Japan, Outfitted For Eight Yen

Irish Wanderer Eager to Get Back to His Home in County Cork

County Cork is calling to Thomas Frederick MacKeown, a hitch-hiking Irishman, who arrived in Victoria yesterday afternoon aboard the Blue Funnel liner Tyndareus from the Orient after a roaming exploit that would do credit to any member of the Celtic race.

Hailing from Cork, Irish Free State, Mr. MacKeown essayed to make a novel tour of the world, and after spending an exciting time in the Near East, he packed his haversack and set out from Calcutta, India, for China, Japan and Canada, en route the "old sod."

Traveling light, he used every type of transport available, sometimes walking great distances and at times suffering hunger in his efforts to make a definite objective.

CHEAP RING OUT

The hiker reached Yokohama, Japan, in rags, and there outfitted himself with a new rig of clothes and footwear at a total cost of eight yen. He has allowed himself $1 a day for the tour and has experienced enough adventures to provide action for a novel. When Mr. MacKeown arrived here he was dressed in a leather coat and plus fours. He boarded the Tyndareus in Japan, and is now making his way back to Ireland as fast as he can. He has been engaged in Y.M.C.A. work while in India and the countries of the Far East. While in Victoria he was directed to some people from Cork who reside here, and he said he would be most happy to look them up. He left by the midnight boat for Vancouver, and will travel over the Canadian National Railways to Montreal en route to the Free State.

ASTRONOMERS LOOKING FOR TEMPEL'S COMET

Associated Press
Lake Geneva, Wis., Nov. 1.—Astronomers to-day were pointing their telescopes toward the eastern sky in the hope of catching a glimpse of Tempel's Comet, due to appear sometime within the next two weeks.

The comet was first observed in 1866, when astronomers calculated it would reappear in thirty-three years.

One of the most startling bits of recent news is a little announcement that came not long ago that while it costs $300 a year to keep a man in prison, it costs only $100 a year to keep a child in school.

It would be a good thing if that information could be placed before every Canadian public official who has anything to do with school budgets.

It is the most eloquent preachment against cutting school budgets that could possibly be imagined.

Educated men and women do not often find their way into penitentiaries. There are exceptions to this rule, of course, but any social worker, police official or prison warden will say that the youngster who goes through school and gets a decent chance to train and broaden his mind is not very apt to become a lawbreaker when he grows up.

The great recruiting ground for the underworld is the place where youngsters break off their schooling before they have had enough of it to profit by it.

These times demand strict economy in government. No city or province can afford any unnecessary expenditures.

But money spent on schools is not an unnecessary expenditure, nor is an expenditure which is unduly high. Compared with that other little item—the cost of taking care of criminals—it is very low indeed.

FOR BRIDGE PARTIES

In Victoria women are rolling their own cigarettes for bridge parties to meet changed economic conditions.

CANADIANS TO HOLIDAY HERE

Railroad Companies Will Bring Many Easterners to Pacific Coast This Winter

Canada's Evergreen Playground, With Its Fine Golf Courses, Is Now Attraction

Special to The Times

Montreal, Nov. 1.—That Canadians are more and more spending their winter holidays in Canada is being daily evidenced by the vast number of inquiries pouring in to the passenger department offices of the Canadian railways. The majority of these inquiries, from those living in the eastern provinces, concern Canada's evergreen playground on the Pacific Coast. Protected from the winter cold by the warm Japan current, British Columbia is year by year attracting an ever-increasing number of visitors from eastern Canada, all of whom are anxious to avoid the rigors of winter weather.

In order to meet the popular demand, and to encourage Canadians in their desire to spend their holidays in their own country, both the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railways are this winter offering return tickets from Eastern Canada to the Pacific Coast at the same low fares as were in effect during last summer, for the season limit summer tourist tickets.

C. P. Riddell, chairman of the Canadian Passenger Association, in making the announcement here to-day, said:

Prosecutions Will Follow Hallowe'en

Five to Face Property Damage Charges After Revelry Yesterday Evening

Fire Alarm Circuit Disrupted in Fairfield; Minor Damage From Pranks

Fire boys and men, ranging from juvenile age to thirty years, will be prosecuted for damaging property as a result of police activities on Hallowe'en.

Three of them, aged nineteen, twenty-one and thirty years, were apprehended by Sergeant J. P. Macdonald and Constable S. Dunnell for pulling down the exit signs at Government House and removing real estate signs from a house nearby. The juvenile offender, it is understood, would not have pressed the charge except for the ages of the alleged culprits.

The other two are youths of juvenile age believed responsible for some "rotten egg incidents" in James Bay. The veranda of C. E. Knowles' residence at 177 Superior Street was covered with eggs and other garbage when he returned from a visit to the city at 9:30 o'clock. A house on South Turner Street was similarly treated.

The police are also seeking youths who pulled down a new fence on Alpha Street and prosecutions may be launched in this connection.

As a general rule Hallowe'en passed fairly quietly, due in some measure to an efficient patrol maintained by the police who were out in full force.

BOY HURT

The only injury to persons reported was an aftermath this morning when a youth named George Hamlin, 15, a home cigarette maker, was badly injured by a fire in the basement of Sir James Douglas School and broke a finger when he held it too long.

MONTHLY BILL OF $250,000

Estimated Amount For Relief Board's Operations in B.C.

The Fordham Unemployment Commission which met the unemployment committee of the Cabinet this morning was authorized by order-in-council both at Ottawa and here to begin functioning to-day.

All unemployment camps in the province will be supervised by the new organization if necessary. Bureaus in several centres now housing unemployed returned men, also, will be under supervision of the commission.

Selected men with grocery experience will be placed in charge of commissaries at the different camps. These commissaries will order supplies for their respective camps through the purchasing agent here, who, in turn, will buy from wholesalers.

Ottawa, it is understood, has been requested to wire a credit large enough to take care of all immediate expenditures in preparing camps for occupancy. A sum of $250,000 monthly is estimated to be necessary for proper functioning of the commission, and this sum is expected to be available from the federal authorities as needed.

Popular Hotel Valued at $35,000 Complete Loss; Mrs. N. G. Thomas, Wife of Proprietor, and H. Kircup, Assistant, Jump From Windows When Retreat Cut Off

Second Time Flames Have Wrecked Hotel

Efforts of Hundred Fighters Unavailing Against Wind-driven Flames; No Furniture Or Personal Effects Saved

Razed by a fire that made swift headway through the wood construction, Riverside Inn, popular summer resort at the east end of Cowichan Lake, valued at approximately $35,000, lay a heap of smoldering ruins early to-day. Efforts of over 100 fire-fighters, who rushed to the scene as soon as the blaze was discovered, failed to save any part of the structure or the effects of the proprietor and his assistant.

Mrs. Norman G. Thomas, wife of the proprietor, and Harry Kircup, assistant, were forced to leap from their bedroom windows in their night attire when the fire was discovered. They were the only people in the hotel at the time.

The conflagration started between 3:30 and 3:45 o'clock this morning and burned with terrific speed for an hour and a half before the roof and walls collapsed. By diligent work the volunteer fire-fighters prevented the spread of flames to the garage at the government hatchery, forty feet from the inn.

FIREWORKS SET OFF

Although no theory was advanced to-day for the origin of the fire, it was remarked by people in the vicinity that fireworks had been set off near the inn as Hallowe'en was celebrated.

AROUNDED BY SMOKE

Smoke flooding into their rooms gave Mrs. Thomas and Mr. Kircup their first knowledge of the blaze. Rising hurriedly they found their retreat cut off from the main exit and were forced to leap from their respective windows twelve feet from the ground. Neither had time to save anything.

Immediately news of the fire was received the telephone operator at Cowichan put in calls to all homes equipped with phones and a volunteer crew of over 100 rushed to the scene equipped with buckets. In the meantime a gasoline pump owned by Alan Castley was towed down the lake to the scene of the blaze. Crews manned the pump and directed a steady stream of water on the flames, but they had gained far too much headway to be stopped.

Limits Are Set For Wheat Preference

BENNETT QUOTED

The government spokesman quoted a statement of Premier Bennett in the Canadian Commons on October 26, as saying that "preferences would not be available to goods sent from Canada to the United States and re-exported there." Mr. Bennett also stated that "it is our purpose to encourage the storage of wheat either in Canada, which is to obtain the preference, or in the United Kingdom, where we may obtain an advantage of the storage and warehouse dues," added Mr. Bennett.

ALBERTA WHEAT

Calgary, Nov. 1.—Alberta pool wheat will not be affected to any great extent by the British Government's decision refusing the preference to Canadian grain stored in United States elevators and from there re-exported to the United Kingdom. The wheat is shipped via the Pacific route and stored in their own elevators.

The Alberta Wheat Pool has elevators at Vancouver, Victoria and Prince Rupert, where most of this province's product is stored for shipment to foreign markets.

Saskatchewan and Manitoba farmers will bear the brunt of the British Government's decision regarding the wheat preferences decided on at the Ottawa Imperial Conference, pool heads state. At present there are about 13,500,000 bushels of western Canadian wheat stored in or en route to United States seaboard and lake port elevators. Some of this wheat is bound for markets outside the United Kingdom, however, and will not come under the preference ruling as announced in the British Commons to-day.

COMMENT WITHHELD

No comment was forthcoming from the office of the Alberta Pacific Grain Company Limited, large exporter of western Canada. It was purely a British Government matter, J. R.

Minister Criticizes Manitoba University Governors

Attorney-General Says College Board Failed In Duties

Hon. W. J. Major Is Witness at Inquiry in Winnipeg Into University Fund Shortages

Winnipeg, Nov. 1.—The Winnipeg Press in its columns to-day published the following:

"Preservation of all available routes for the export of Canadian wheat is sternly advocated by the export section of the western grain trade which, according to local spokesmen, deplores attempts being made to defer from the British preference any Canadian wheat that is not shipped through Buffalo and other United States ports.

"In asking the United States to be made available to them in their business of getting rid of Canada's wheat surplus, these exporters claim they do not lack patriotism. If, by shipping the grain by an all-Canadian route there would be no restriction of movement and the interests of the western producers would not be prejudiced they would make no protest. But this, they state, is not the case.

"They cite numerous reasons why the Buffalo route is an advantage to Canada in moving out the surplus crop each year and point also to its high value as a competitive route in the matter of freight rates.

"The exporter is given a choice of routes in the season of open water and can take advantage of freight conditions arising at either Montreal or United States Atlantic ports that might facilitate the export movement of Canadian wheat.

"In the winter months there is an abundance of tonnage, mostly liners, coming into the United States Atlantic ports and the large volume of export tonnage would be seriously restricted if the trade had to depend on the comparatively few liners calling at Canadian Atlantic ports during the winter.

"Freight rates on the Great Lakes would not be competitive if Buffalo was closed out as a handling point for Canadian wheat and the result would be able to dictate their own terms."

INTERPRETATION ASKED
 Winnipeg, Nov. 1.—Dispatches from London to the effect that the United Kingdom government had decided not to give application of the Imperial Conference preference to Canadian wheat stored in United States elevators and from there re-exported to the United Kingdom, have been met with a great deal of interest in the United Kingdom.

"The result will be that Canadian wheat shipped through the United States will not get the preferred, I am sure of that," said Hon. Chicago, Nov.—Arthur W. Cutten, prominent grain market operator, has announced his support for the re-election of President Herbert Hoover in the subject of Guelph, Ont., said he believed the Agricultural Marketing Act and the Federal Farm Board directly responsible for the drop in wheat prices, but asserted that supporting western insurgents Congressmen as the power behind the Farm Board legislation.

PROSECUTIONS WILL FOLLOW HALLOWE'EN
 Police headquarters was the busiest place in town from 7 o'clock until midnight with sixty or seventy complaints attended to directly and others listed.

On Fernwood Road a fence was pulled down and put in the middle of the street.

A transfer wagon was found on the sidewalk of Flagg Street.

A stonewall on May Street, the object of Halloween pranks for years, was damaged again.

Three houses were splattered with eggs of doubtful age.

A pile of real estate signs was found on the steps of Quadra Street School.

Two reports of apples being thrown at houses were received.

The outside municipalities had a fairly quiet evening, the police reported.

ONLY THREE COMPLAINTS
 In Saanich only three complaints had been received up to now, to-day, and these were all of a minor nature.

Augmented by seven special officers, the police maintained a comprehensive patrol until 2 o'clock in the morning.

While the children enjoyed themselves they did not go in for wilful damage.

One broken window and a damaged fence were the only offences in Oak Bay. "The boys behaved very well," Chief John Syme commented.

BRITISH M.P.'S SPEED DEBATE

Canadian Press
 London, Nov. 1.—Premier MacDonald to-day intimated to the Commons the government bill ratifying the agreements of the Imperial conference would have passed through all stages by next Thursday night.

Replying to Mr. Hon. George Lansbury, Labor leader, the Prime Minister said he understood arrangements had been made with the opposition parties to have the bill concluded by Thursday night. He intended to begin the debate on unemployment on Friday, resume it on Monday and conclude it on Tuesday.

PRINCE GEORGE MAY SOON WED
 Rumors Say Engagement to Princess Ingrid Will Be Announced November 11

Youngest Son of King and Queen May Be Created Duke

London, Nov. 1.—Reports were current to-day that Prince George, youngest son of the King and Queen, would be made a duke December 20, his thirtieth birthday.

The other three royal princes all have been given peerages.

This speculation was made all the more interesting in view of persistent rumors which receive no official confirmation as to the possibility of the prince with that of Princess Ingrid of Sweden, who is now visiting her grandfather, the Duke of Connaught, in England, and frequently is seen with Prince George.

The rumor is that the engagement of the two will be announced November 11.

SWEDISH DISCUSSION
 Stockholm, Nov. 1.—Stockholm newspapers openly discussed rumors to-day that the engagement of Princess Ingrid to Prince George of the United Kingdom had been announced in London on November 11.

The newspaper added the announcement might be made at dinner in the British capital, celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of the birthday of the prince's father. The time and circumstance of the dinner was accepted as unimportant for the announcement if it is to be made, as there is the possibility also the recently-wed Prince Gustav Adolf of Sweden and Princess Sibylla may attend the affair.

The presence of the princess in London for a visit with her royal relatives was as well as the recent visit to Sweden of the two princes lent zest to the reports, and photographs showing Prince George and Princess Ingrid were the order of the day.

MORE WORKERS ON PAYROLLS

Twenty detectives walked into the National Unemployment Workers' office from which he had been directing the march of the unemployed, and the marchers who caused disturbances in Hyde Park and Trafalgar Square last week. Hanington was arrested as he was talking to a newspaperman.

Meanwhile Scotland Yard was prepared for any further trouble should the marchers persist in their threat to gain access to the precincts of the Commons.

Some 12,000 volunteer police reserves were put on duty.

Heretofore the mile limit law has not always been rigidly enforced, but now it would be.

Three thousand foot and mounted police were on duty in the vicinity of Parliament. They reached southward toward Canadaigua Green, and if necessary, 2,000 more could be called into action at once through the reserve system.

It was said police might permit a demonstration of two or three of the unemployed to carry the petition, claimed to bear 1,000,000 names, to the door of the Commons and pass it to one of the doorkeepers.

The petition demands abolition of the means test and restoration of relief allowances for the unemployed to their original figures, and similar grievances.

"BRAINS" OF DEMONSTRATIONS
 London, Nov. 1.—Walter Hanington, thirty-six, called Communist leader of the "hunger marchers," is a London-born and trained engineer and organizer. He is called the "brains" of national unemployment demonstrations.

His boldest effort was planned to-day at the Commons with the use of "massed strength."

He stood at the foot of the Labor Party to obtain a hearing at the bar of the House and decided to rely on force.

In 1930 he led a nation-wide march on London without much effect. He was a Communist candidate for Parliament in West Bermondsey in 1931, polling 73 votes to the winner's 10,039.

In Bow Street court to-day he ably conducted his own hearing and insisted all his statements were statements of fact.

Then he turned and questioned the officer responsible for his arrest.

The charge of inciting to mutiny was based on a speech Hanington made Sunday at the foot of Lord Nelson's monument, attacking the emergency force of special police as "black-legs." That force, in use for the first time since the general strike of 1926, is a body of volunteers who relieve regular men from routine duty so they may be used on emergency assignments.

In that speech Hanington also referred to the police strike of 1919.

His demand for release on bail was refused. The case was remanded.

Manchester, Eng., Nov. 1.—With an estimated 170,000 workers on strike in the spinning section of the Lancashire textile mills was complete to-day.

The opinion prevailed in authentic circles, however, that workers who struck in protest of a 5 to 8 per cent wage cut would be at work again next week.

Weather For Month Swings From Warm Summer To Winter's Prologue

Heat on Third Day Sets Record For October; Prospects Unsettled

Old Man Weather turned stage hand last month and was kept busy shifting scenes from the warmest summer to those of winter's prologue. After opening October with a glorious stretch of Indian summer in which a record high temperature was registered, he was preparing for a transformation scene of winter yesterday.

On Sunday in certain parts of the city temperatures fell below the freezing point. They were a decided contrast to the record of seventy-six on October 3, the highest mark registered for this month since the records were started in 1873.

The mean temperature was fifty-two degrees for the first thirty days, just one degree below average. In the standard at the top of Ganges Hill the minimum was forty on Sunday. On the grass there it was eleven degrees lower, while at the lower station, on Fairfield Road, the screen reading dropped to thirty-one with the temperature on the grass sliding down another five points. In other parts of the city the mercury went down still further.

Late flowers suffered from the frost. The King's dahlia, which was in bloom, was withering under its touch.

STRAINING BOWS
 Old Sol, after a brave start, went into a decline as October drew to a close. He was about nine hours below his usual quota with only 123 hours and twenty-four minutes sunshine to his credit.

Jupiter Pluvius made a gallant attempt to stay at par, with a precipitation of 2.34 inches, just 36 below the ordinary amount for the month. The fall since the beginning of the year was 4.83 inches above the average, the total to date being 22.59 inches.

PATRIOTISM EXPLOITED
 Miss MacPhail argued strongly against the Canada—Great Britain agreement.

"It is much more mischievous than helpful, and while there is evil and good in it, the evil outweighs the good," she said.

"I think it can be said the high patriotism of the Canadian people has been exploited once again by highly organized commercial groups working through the government."

Disparity between the Canadian dollar and the pound sterling would nullify all preferences granted by the agreement, she said.

The wheat, bacon and other agricultural preferences were "the bait on the end of the trap."

The conference had succeeded in lowering tariffs within the empire, but had raised them against foreign countries and had failed to deal at all with exchange problems, said the Southwestern Grey member.

"We have got to come to the place where the masses of the people will be able to buy the goods they need," she said.

This would involve radical changes, it would mean nationalization of financial institutions, control of the vital industries, maintenance of a minimum of hours of work and insurance against sickness, accidents, old age and all other hazards of life, she said.

On Oct. 1, Bollinger, Liberal, Bellechance, Que., told the Commons the result of the Ottawa conference would be to divert Canadian trade without increasing it.

He was against any centralization of legislation within the Empire.

LAVERGNE'S NEWS
 Armand Lavergne, Conservative, Montmagny, Que., characterizing himself as an independent, urged the Liberals to show the people the treaty as it should prove disadvantageous to the door of the Conservatives. The Liberal party, Mr. Lavergne said, had displayed a marked movement "to the left."

"Did not your countrymen move to the left at the time the French Republic was established?" he asked.

Mr. Lavergne got to a duel with William Duff, Liberal, Antigonish, Guysboro, N.S. The Deputy Speaker told Mr. Duff that the moment I shall be very sorry for myself.

Right came the Nova Scotian, "I don't think I had better tell you what you are—the small world of the world."

For forty minutes the battle of words continued. "Bluff," "fluster" and "respect for my position" flashed back and forth. Loud laughter broke from the Liberal benches.

Mr. Lavergne, who for years a leader of the Quebec Nationalists and an ardent anti-imperialist, talked of "kith and kin" in England and suggested a five-year, not a five-year term for the treaty.

PROSPECTORS' APPEAL WINS

Court of Appeal Quashes Conviction Recorded at Revelstoke

Vancouver, Nov. 1.—By unanimous judgment, the B.C. Court of Appeal allowed an appeal of two prospectors, Charles Henry Wood and Roy Diechok, and quashed a conviction against them by Judge Nisbet of the county court of Revelstoke, who found them guilty of stealing $3,800 in gold from French Creek Development Co. Limited.

Bullion was lost on August 31 last, on a trail between Goldstream Ferry and Old Goldstream by Walter Gillingham Watson, from French Creek. In the party were James Shields, a trapper, and a third man. On discovering the loss, Watson retraced his steps; and that there was more than the empty pouch, which contained the gold was found. Wood and Diechok, who were returning from packing supplies, did not reach that point until the others had gone beyond it.

Both Wood and Diechok, who had been released on their own recognizance, when judgment was reserved on October 25, were in court to hear judgment.

"The judgment of the court is that this appeal should be allowed," announced Mr. Justice Martin, who presided in the absence of Chief Justice J. A. Macdonald.

It was desirable, he said, that they should be released as little as possible for the reason that the case was based on circumstantial evidence. In the present case, he added, what was submitted to them was more than a mere opportunity for two other persons to commit the theft. "If that is so, that destroys the circumstantial evidence in this case," he said.

The decision of Chief Justice Macdonald, allowing the appeal, was given by Mr. Justice McPhillips.

Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald also allowed the appeal.

C. W. Craig, K.C., and C. W. Tyack, K.C., for Wood and Diechok, and A. M. Johnson, K.C., for the Crown.

Alberta Relief Board Meets

New Commission Makes Plans For Opening of Work Camps in Parks

Calgary, Nov. 1.—Assurances of food and sleeping accommodation for a week brought quietness and peace today to the ruffled ranks of Calgary's single jobless and ended the rumblings that hinted of violence yesterday.

After hearing the demands of a delegation for a $50 cash grant and $10 weekly maintenance for the winter months, civic heads put into effect a relief scheme to last seven days, granting the homeless sleeping accommodation and meal tickets. Efforts to recover the cost of aiding approximately 700 men in this way will be made by the city, based on the claims the Dominion government is responsible for single unemployed persons.

Gathering here today for its first meeting, the newly appointed Alberta relief commission was expected to take the situation which developed yesterday under consideration. The commission also was expected to institute early steps for the opening of camps at Elk Island and Waterton Lakes National Parks, where the single men will be employed.

NEW ROBINSON CRUSOE FOUND

Sailors Land on Island Off Chile Coast and See Semi-savage Man in Goatskins

Magallanes, Chile, Nov. 1.—A new Robinson Crusoe who, about rescues, has been found on an island off the coast of Chile.

Sailors of the French vessel Tolosa, who landed on Rincón Island, seeking water, said they followed footprints and surprised a man covered with goat-skins in a semi-savage manner.

Federico Lavarrero, one of the sailors, tried to talk to the king of the black tale, but he answered only in guttural sounds. As though he had forgotten his language, by signs, the sailors induced him to lead them to a hidden source of water.

On leaving, they invited him to go along, but he took one look at the ship and fled into the bush.

It was on Juan Fernandez Island, off the central part of Chile, that Alexander Selkirk, the prototype of "Robinson Crusoe," lived.

CAMPAIGN SWINGS INTO LAST WEEK IN LIVELY STYLE

Visible Audience of 23,000 Hears Hoover in New York; In Boston 15,000 Hear Roosevelt

New York, Nov. 1.—Although the major-party candidates for the United States presidency spoke in overflowing auditoriums more than 200 miles apart in the latest round of the election campaign, so close did their subjects run it might easily have been a debate.

President Herbert Hoover appeared yesterday evening before a noisy throng in Democratic New York, spoke of Governor Franklin Roosevelt's proposals as threatening destruction to the United States system and attacked his opponent's generally low-tariff stand.

In Boston the Democratic candidate accused President Hoover of "cracking the whip of fear over the backs of voters," and also added an attack on his opponent's generally high-tariff stand.

WIDOW SPEAKS
Boston, Nov. 1.—Senator George W. Norris, white-haired Independent Republican of Nebraska, attacked the power policies of President Hoover in a Roosevelt campaign address here yesterday evening, and predicted that the "power trust" would print and distribute a speech made by the President in New York a few hours earlier in the evening.

Mr. Norris departed from the prepared text of his address to make the reference to President Hoover's speech. He brought it in after a passage which told of the distribution by privately-owned power companies of 50,000 copies of a previous Hoover speech opposing public ownership of utilities.

"For four years we have had a man in the White House who has been friendly to this trust," Mr. Norris said. "The trust supported him from the first. They have circulated his speeches as part of their propaganda. They worked for his election four years ago and did everything they could, to prevent a previous Hoover speech, and they are working for him now."

Laughter and applause greeted the reference by Senator Norris to the business career of President Hoover in London, in which he declared Mr. Hoover had made "an immense fortune" through the "organization of corporations and the selling of stock to the unsuspecting public."

ROOSEVELT TRAVELS
Boston, Nov. 1.—Franklin D. Roosevelt left Boston today on a round trip to his home in Hyde Park, N.Y. He planned to go to Providence, R.I., to measure the machinery for a stop at Worcester, and thence through Springfield and Connecticut to his home.

The candidate said in yesterday evening's speech in Boston he favored "continued protection for American agriculture."

"I favor more than that," he said. "I advocate measures to give farmers and added benefit, called the tariff benefit, on the tariff effective on his products."

LETHBRIDGE DEATH
Lethbridge, Alta., Nov. 1.—Believed the victim of escaping gas fumes, Miss Stella Chown, waitress, was found dead in her apartment here yesterday. She had been missing since she left the place of her employment Saturday evening. An inquest is unlikely. Police, investigating, found all the windows shut and a gas stove without a vent burning. It is believed she succumbed to the fumes after retiring.

WHY LAW REFORM IS SLOW
Chicago, Nov. 1 (Associated Press)—"Miserable, with law and government," said Clarence Darrow, the attorney, "is lawyers. They are interested in preserving the past. There is nothing sacred to them unless it has existed before. They are against anything new." His opinion was expressed in an address.

STORM BLOWS BUILDING DOWN ON HIM
Chicago, Nov. 1.—The secret, "say delegates to the Illinois Association of Chiropractors, is out: Adam and Eve both had flat feet. "But," said one delegate, "the ancients were better off than most moderns. They suffered from foot trouble due mainly to poor circulation, which they couldn't help."

FOUR SHARE IN $30,000 ESTATE
Seattle, Nov. 1.—The appointment of an administrator yesterday revealed that three sons and a daughter, all living in or near Lincoln, Nebraska, will divide the $30,000 estate left by Seymour Abrams, apparently Indian war veteran who died apparently in poverty at the Bremerton naval hospital a month ago.

The Seattle Trust Company was appointed administrator in superior court, and Attorney Edwin Allen Pryor, representing them, reported a search had failed to reveal any trace of a will. In Abrams' clothing, after his death, approximately $15,000 in currency was found and later other holdings were discovered.

The three sons are Garvin, Guy and John Abrams and the daughter is Mrs. Maggie Martinson.

One can imagine the embarrassment of F. L. Lepur of Phoenix, Ariz., from this picture. As a heavy wind and rain storm came up he drove his car to the side of a brick building and there sat snug and snug. But with the storm at its height, the building suddenly crashed down on him. Lepur was unhurt except for his feelings.

PARTY PUT OVER WITH A BANG

Many Outside "Safe and Sane" Hallowe'en in Stockton, Cal.

Stockton, Cal., Nov. 1.—Chief of Police Frank Fredericks' big "safe and sane" Hallowe'en party, to which he invited every youngster in Stockton, went over with a bang.

Two youths nursed a hard shot wound. 200 others explained to angry parents how they happened to land in jail and peaceful citizens gazed ruefully at damaged property.

The party, at which such safe diversions as ducking for apples were enjoyed, was given by Chief Fredericks as a preventive against more robust forms of Hallowe'en activities. He invited every youngster in Stockton to attend and complete for prizes.

More than 1,000 boys and girls responded and a "safe and sane" Hallowe'en seemed assured.

Soon, however, disturbing reports came in. Pedestrians complained about being splattered with tomatoes, door bells jangled, windows and automobiles not smeared with soap and suds and property not secured by lock and key vanished.

Things were wilder than ever before, some residents insisted.

Kenneth Root, seventeen, and Genoa Kenneth Root, sixteen, received charges with a bird shot from a gun in the hands of A. R. Reethorn, high school instructor, who told police the youths had hurled tomatoes at his automobile.

PLAN MORE USE OF FINE HALL
Shawinigan Residents Discuss Indoor Sports, Christmas Tree and Militia

Shawinigan Lake, Nov. 1.—A representative gathering of residents of Shawinigan Lake met on Friday in the S.L.A.A. Hall at the invitation of the directors. The object was to endeavor to form a club and make more use of the splendid new hall by developing all kinds of indoor sports, such as basketball, baseball, carpet bowling, badminton, and other winter sports.

After a lengthy discussion the following committee was formed to go thoroughly into details and meet the directors on November 8: Basketball, M. Dunnett, Mrs. Reeves, Miss B. Archer and A. H. Pious; softball, C. Reeves and J. Lamont; football, J. Davidson and Mr. Brown; rowing, E. Gibson; badminton, N. Alexander, G. C. Cheek, Mrs. Cheek and Mrs. Allen; additional member, H. E. Hawking.

CHRISTMAS TREE
The meeting then considered plans for the annual Christmas tree entertainment for the children of the district. H. E. Hawking was elected chairman and A. H. Pious secretary. The school children are being trained to present an operetta, entitled "Down Amongst the Fairies." There are upwards of 150 children in the school district and the committee plans to have a present on the tree for each child, in addition to the evening's enjoyment.

Committees appointed were: Buying, Mrs. Barnett and Mrs. Layton; gifts, G. Lovell, Mrs. Layton, C. Page, Miss E. Archer, A. H. Pious and A. Lamont; children's supper, Mrs. J. Davidson (convener), Mrs. Medman, Mrs. Page, Mrs. Dwyer, Mrs. Bateman, Mrs. Brooks, Mrs. Barnett and Mrs. Lamb; adults' supper, Mrs. Reeves, Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Medland; census, Miss Archer, Mrs. Medland, A. H. Pious and Mrs. Allen; tree, A. Dwyer, Mrs. Watson, S. Heald and N. Alexander; finance, G. Lovell, Mrs. Medland, Mrs. Kinloch, W. Fraser, Mrs. Mason, Mr. Ball, Mr. Hayward and Mrs. Layton; police, C. Page and Mr. Lamb.

MILITIA PLATOON
Captain C. D. Harvey of Victoria and Captain Henderson of Duncan appealed for support and recruits for a platoon of the Canadian Scottish Regiment.

Captain Harvey gave a stirring address, pointing out the benefits, physically and morally. While deprecating a war-like attitude he emphasized the necessity of preparedness for home defense. He announced that J. C. Rathbone, local postmaster and a veteran of the Great War, had been appointed platoon sergeant.

New Officials For Prussia
Berlin, Nov. 1.—Chancellor Franz von Papen went a step farther yesterday toward merging the Prussian state administration with the federal government.

He appointed Elder von Braun, federal Minister of Agriculture, to administer the Prussian Ministry of Agriculture; Prof. H. Johannes Popitz, former federal Under-Secretary of Treasury, to administer the Prussian Finance Ministry; and Prof. Wilhelm Kaehler of Griefswald University, to administer the Prussian Ministry of Education.

President Paul von Hindenburg appointed Prof. Popitz and Hans Bracht, at present the Prussian commissioner, as federal ministers without portfolio.

MERA TO BE ECUADOR CHIEF
Quayquil, Ecuador, Nov. 1.—Martinez Mera, Liberal candidate for President, was apparently assured of victory today, although some remote areas still were being fought for several days.

It appeared Mera had carried all the major districts except the northern provinces, which went to Manuel Solano Luna, Conservative candidate and former ambassador to Chile.

If there is no change in the trend and none is generally looked for, Mera will assume office as constitutional President December 1.

Ottawa, Nov. 1.—Hector Charlesworth of Toronto, chairman of the Radio Commission, and J. Thomas Maher of Montreal, a member of that body, were sworn in yesterday by E. J. Lemire, clerk of the Privy Council. The third commission, Lieut.-Col. W. Steel, is at the radio conference in Madrid, and will not be home till December 1. The return of Col. Steel will be delayed here yesterday evening.

How to Lose Fat a Pound a Day on a Full Stomach

Do Just These Two Simple Things Fat Melts Away

Science has made important discoveries in fat reduction. The average fat person can now rip off fat a pound a day—four to seven pounds every week!—on a full stomach, with never a hungry moment. Thus it is foolish now to stay fat.

This is what you do: Take a teaspoonful ordinary Jad salts in a glass of water a half hour before breakfast every morning. This reduces moisture-weight instantly. Also cleanses the system of the waste matter and excess toxins that most fat people have, and banishes puffiness and bloating.

Then do this about eating. FILL YOUR STOMACH—eat your fill of lean meats, vegetables like spinach, cauliflower, cabbage, tomatoes, etc., and lots of salads. Eat a lot. Eat all you can hold. Don't go hungry a minute! Cut down on butter, sweets and desserts, bread, meat and fruit for dessert.

THE OFFICIAL RECORD TELLS THE WHOLE STORY

Supporters of the government at Ottawa continue to try to persuade the Canadian people that the tariff policies which Mr. Bennett is pursuing are good for the country. In the general elections of 1930 they were told that unless the King administration were turned out and the Conservative party given the job of running Canada's business, disaster awaited all of us. They were told the same thing in 1925. But let us study the official trade figures from that year up till the end of August of the present year and see what they show. Here they are, recorded in the Canada Year Book, a publication issued by the authority of Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, and the usual monthly reports:

Years Ending	Total Imports and Exports
March 31
1925	$1,895,294,180
1926	2,295,028,809
1927	2,298,465,647
1928	2,359,554,500
1929	2,654,575,166
1930	2,393,211,652
1931	1,723,640,743
1932	1,196,083,261
Twelve mos. ending Aug. 31, 1932	1,014,612,668

It will be noted in the first place that in the twelve months between March 31, 1925, and March 31, 1926, trade increased by more than $350,000,000, despite the dire predictions of the forces then led by Mr. Meighen, and the "whisperers of death" which emanated from Montreal at that time. Still a further increase took place in 1927 and 1928, two normal fiscal years. The record year, of course, was 1929; but even in the twelve months ending March, 1930, six months after the bottom had fallen out of the economic world, Canada's trade was still greater than it was in 1928. The figures for the official business years of 1931 and 1932 speak for themselves. Mr. Bennett took office on August 7, 1930, so the figures for the year ending in the following March include operations for four months under the Liberal administration. For what has happened since then Mr. Bennett and his government will have to accept responsibility. It will be observed, by the way, that in the twelve months ending with last August, the decline compared with the fiscal year amounts to $151,470,596, or at the rate of more than $30,000,000 a month! How long will the economic fabric of Canada be able to stand this strain?

Government supporters have made much in the last month or so of what they term a favorable balance of trade, that we are selling more than we are buying. In the year ending last March the balance in Canada's favor amounted to $9,047,773, with a total turnover of $1,166,083,261. We may well wonder whether the average Canadian taxpayer, in a position to buy more than he sells, would prefer this apparent advantage to an unfavorable balance of a comparatively small amount with a turnover of more than $2,350,000,000. The heads of the two great transportation systems would be able to supply a convincing answer to the question. They suffer from the loss of carrying business. The taxpayer has to pay higher taxes to make up for loss of revenue and all that unemployment relief payments involve.

We are often told that since the Bennett tariffs went into effect more than 1,000 factories have been established in Canada by United States interests. The fact that there are approximately 700,000 people unemployed in the Dominion at the present time—more than three times as many as when Mr. Bennett took office, and that the government is figuratively throwing up its hands in despair because, on its own admission, it has no policy—furnishes the only commentary that is necessary in this regard.

TOO MANY SHIPS AND NOT ENOUGH BUSINESS

An organization which is hoping that the World Economic Conference will produce more than talk is the British Chamber of Shipping. It has issued a statement that unless international trade expands substantially in the near future about thirteen and one-half million tons of costly vessels, most of them still fit for excellent service, will be scrapped as surplus tonnage. We are told that British shipowners naturally will take the lead in this ruthless destruction as they have more to lose by maintaining idle ships and more to gain by getting rid of them.

What the shrinkage of world trade has meant to British ships is reflected in the fact that the amount of seagoing tonnage on the register of the United Kingdom which is laid up in British and foreign ports increased by 588,165 tons in the last six months. This brings the total of idle tonnage to 3,680,437 gross, while the number of ships involved is 665, or one vessel in every four.

It is pointed out also that the extent of the present shipping slump is reflected in the financial earnings of the companies at the present time. Twenty-five British passenger steamship and cargo steamship companies, owning 589 vessels and having a paid up capital of $218,000,000, have distributed a dividend this year amounting only to 1.81 per cent. Thirty-seven cargo-boat companies, with a capital of $76,000,000, owning 308 vessels, returned to their shareholders only 1.44 per cent. Thirteen passenger-carrying companies paid no dividends at all on either preference or ordinary shares and twenty-six cargo-carrying companies followed suit. It is to be noted, too, that the shares and debentures of forty-three British companies have fallen eighteen per cent in market value compared with last year's highest figures. With these facts before the British public and British industry, it is small wonder there is much talk about new trade agreements with the Scandinavian and other European countries as well as with the countries of Latin America. One of the quickest means of helping to restore world trade to something near its former volume, of course, would be a general levelling of tariffs. In this the most effective lead may come from the United States under a Democrat administration.

THEY FURNISH OFFICES WELL AT OTTAWA NOW

The House of Commons learned a few days ago what it cost to equip the offices of Mr. Georges Gonthier, Auditor-General of Canada, and Dr. H. M. Tory, president of the National Research Council of Canada. Hon. H. A. Stewart, Minister of Public Works, supplied the information that the bill amounted to $3,388. Here are the details:

The outlay on Mr. Gonthier's office was $1,878.51, made up as follows: One desk, $248; glass top for desk, $27; four desk trays, $36; desk lamp, $16.25; one table, $140; one arm tilter chair, $79; one arm chair, $74; four side chairs, $220; one cushion, $21; one wastepaper basket, $18; one telephone cabinet, $60; bookcases, $278.82; curtains for bookcase doors, $190.95; rug, $248; two mats, $21; glass top for table, $26; glass top for telephone table, $248; freight on goods, $10.54. All articles were bought during 1931.

Dr. Tory's office cost $1,510 to equip, according to the return in this case. There was one desk, $260; two easy chairs, $250; one settee, $220; one rug, $395; one side table, $168; curtains, $138, and one office chair, $45. All goods were bought early this year.

The Ottawa Journal, a supporter of the Bennett government, observes that "it will be noted that both offices were equipped in 1931 and early in 1932, years of great financial embarrassment in the government; of poverty, distress and economic chaos outside. And in face of it a wastebasket is put under Mr. Gonthier's desk at a cost of $18, and highly-priced volumes snuggle coyly behind a curtain in the bookcase which set back $190.05 the national treasury, over which it was understood there had been set about a year ago a watchdog with particularly vicious teeth. And among other things Dr. Tory is set off to a fine start with two easy chairs costing $250. The remainder of the two lists are in keeping." And we wonder how it was that the curtains for the bookcase doors cost such a trifling amount less than the bookcases themselves.

Now, Mr. Gonthier and Dr. Tory are both estimable gentlemen, and their work is highly important to the government service. The Journal continues, but it asks whether the stature of Mr. Gonthier is added to by the fact that he has an $18-wastebasket tucked under his desk, or that Dr. Tory increased by the fact that those who visit him can loll in easy chairs that cost $250? The Journal does not think so. And when a similar condition probably could be duplicated in reports from other government offices, one is compelled to ask the same thing of the officials who occupy them. How, by the way, would the expense of fitting up these two offices compare with the "extravagances" of the C.N.R.?

While our Ottawa contemporary does not suppose there is any official connection between the two, it thinks those responsible for announcements in the House of Commons should be a little more discreet and not make it known, all in one week, first that the government is to float a loan for $80,000,000, and secondly that it cost $3,388 to furnish two offices for high officials in the government service.

The provincial government yesterday wired to Ottawa for $250,000 to be used on British Columbia relief camps for the housing of homeless single men from the urban centres. It asked for a prompt reply. As this is written we have not heard what the outcome has been; but we can assume that action will be taken by the federal authorities at once, for only last week, Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Labor, told the House of Commons that "if any responsible government officials report their inability to care for the needy within their jurisdiction, the government will take adequate action."

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

THE TAX ON TEXTILES

The Toronto Star

As Mr. A. O. Dawson observes, "sacrifices have to be made and we are loyal enough to do our part." The Canadian people can read and write. They know that two and two make four and that where an article bore an import tax of 15 per cent two years ago and is now reduced for example from 53 per cent to 51 per cent no crushing blow has been given the protected manufacturers of that article. The cotton and woolen interests are not getting blows of any kind. They are getting what they want when they want it. They now have a doctor who lets them write their own prescriptions.

GOOD PICKINGS

The Ottawa Journal

It develops that Samuel Insull, in his later connection with the chain of electricity industries which he established, paid himself a salary of $500,000 a year. No wonder that he was a champion of private enterprise as against public ownership of public services. Public ownership, in controversy, is at this disadvantage as against private enterprise that not often is anyone paid much to argue for it. Whereas, usually, private enterprise has champions who get large pay. They do not all get half a million a year, but it may be assumed that there is always liable to be excellent pickings which poor old public ownership would rarely provide for any particular individual or set of individuals.

A THOUGHT

Finally, gentlemen, whatever things are true, whatever things are honest, whatever things are just, whatever things are lovely, whatever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things.—Colossians 3: 1-8.

Loose Ends

A style snapper discovers some grisly secrets—but deduces an absurd conclusion—the Democratic despair of Mr. Smith—and fail to understand a natural phenomenon—and Christianity reaches new depths in New York.

By H. B. W.

A GENTLEMAN NAMED G. Patrick Thompson has been snooping professionally around the style factories of the world and he has come home with some grisly secrets. He found that the origin of many of the most respectable fashions seen on the streets of Victoria, B.C., and Peoria, Ill., these days is far from respectable. For example, the recent rage of berets (berets are hats, you know, which some of the young bloods of the village have taken to stealing from their sisters lately in the belief that it makes them look devilish, not only when they look more calico than usual) originated in a most curious way. Mr. Thompson relates that a celebrated Parisian coquette went off to a little Basque fishing village for a holiday. The Argentine millionaire's son, who was keeping her, became suspicious and, paying her a surprise visit, discovered a rough fisherman's beret on the table. The Argentine gentleman accidentally killed the fisherman, there was a great scandal, and the lady came back to Paris wearing the beret as a sort of charming souvenir. In a few weeks Paris and then the world were wearing berets. And I imagine this information will stimulate the style mighty among the young bloods of the village.

THE GIRLS' dainty habit of wearing a colored hankie on the wrist, beneath a bracelet, has a birth scarcely more reputable. Two ladies of the underworld had a quarrel about a man in a Paris cafe. One of the ladies bit the other on the wrist until it bled. The lady who was bitten wrapped a handkerchief about the wound and went on dancing. In a few days every fashionable woman had a handkerchief on her wrist. You can see them at a dance to-night if you care to look, but happily the ladies here dispense with the biting. In the same way the style of bathing dress now popular in the United States (a large silk handkerchief forming the entire upper portion of it) started when a lady of frail morals lost the top of her bathing suit at Monte Carlo last summer, and had to devise something in a hurry to take its place.

MR. THOMPSON seems to think that these revelations may shock the respectable women of the world out of the present styles. Evidently Mr. Thompson knows nothing of women. On the contrary, his researches will only make such things more popular. It will give them a touch of wickedness, a soupçon of scandal, which is relished by the most virtuous of these creatures. What Mr. Thompson evidently hasn't learned yet is that women are naturally wicked. The marvel is that, despite this natural instinct, most of them remain so good.

RICH MAN

FOR MONTHS the Democratic Party in the United States implored Mr. Al Smith to make a speech in support of its candidate, Mr. Roosevelt. You would have thought by the anxiety of the party that the utterances of Mr. Smith were far more important than those of the candidate. Finally Mr. Smith started to make speeches and then, behold, the Democratic Party didn't like them at all. It canceled Mr. Smith's radio broadcasts lest they reach too many people and do the party irreparable damage, and it was noted that Mr. Hoover was beginning to make the first faint gains of the campaign. This has caused world-wide astonishment, because four years ago Mr. Smith was regarded as the most effective campaign speaker in the country. Outsiders can't understand the assertion of the Democratic managers that Mr. Smith, instead of saying something useful, was merely trying to justify his old politics, his own religion and his own position in the scheme of things. What outsiders forget is that four years have passed since the Happy Warrior went forth.

IN THOSE four years Mr. Smith has become rich. He is a director of great corporations. He is the boss of the skyscraper Empire State Building. His friends are millionaires like Mr. Raskob. He lives on a grand scale. The same thing seems to have happened to Mr. Smith as happened to the Forgiven Man entirely. Mr. Smith even declares there is no such creature in the country. It is not that rich men are bad men. It is not that poor men are good men. It is not that poor men, if they became rich, would be any better or do any better than the present rich men. Perhaps they would be as bad and worse. But the present condition of the world shows beyond question that the place of rich men is not in governments.

DEVOUT MEN

THE WORLD'S governments to-day are in the hands of Hoovers, Mellons, Stimson, Baldwins, Simons, Patens and Bennetts, patriotic men no doubt, sincere men beyond question, devout and religious men, many of them. And look what they have done to us. They don't lack ability, they don't lack honesty, or sincerity. But they lack the most essential thing of all statecraft. They lack the human touch. Inevitably their wealth makes it impossible for them to sense the feelings of the forgotten men who make up the vast bulk of the world's inhabitants. The result has been everywhere that, instead of working from below, to increase the purchasing power and improve the condition of the people, trusting this to improve the condition of the big interests, they have worked from the top, trusting the big interests to improve the condition of the people. They have done it in the United States, through the Reconstruction Corporation. They have done it in Germany through state reductions in wages and bonuses to big companies. They are doing it in Britain through protection. We are doing it in Canada through our tariff. With the best intentions and highest motives rich statesmen have inaugurated and now maintain the economic policies of the world. I hope you are enjoying them.

CHRISTIANS

IN THE Christian city of New York a row of some historical importance has been in progress between the authorities of All Souls' Protestant Episcopal Church on one hand and Bishop Manning and the rector, Rev. Rollin Dodd, on the other. I have lost track of the controversy in the last few days, but when I last read of it, the church authorities had threatened to prosecute Bishop Manning and Mr. Dodd for trespass if they entered the church. The trouble arose because Mr. Dodd insisted on allowing colored people to worship with whites and Bishop Manning supported him. The white people who manage the church's affairs insisted that the negroes must worship at separate services to avoid association between the two races. Thus has Christianity reached its full flower in the Christian city of New York. No one can object, of course, if white people do not want to associate with other races, and insist on keeping them out of their own premises. You can only protest in the name of ordinary truth when these white people call themselves Christians. In the same Christian city of New York there is a fierce prejudice against Jews to which the people of New York are entitled. But only so long as they do not claim to belong to a religion whose Founder was a Jew. A lot of Christians seem to have forgotten that.

BRITISH JUSTICE

To the Editor:—As there has naturally been a great deal of interest in the newspaper accounts of the riots at the Kingston Penitentiary, and as the matter has been left rather shrouded in a veil of mystery, a solution of the problem has been suggested by statements in the story of "Ex-500." I believe your readers would be interested in the following quotation from The Toronto Financial Post of September 17. The warning reiterated by this publication on several occasions throws light on subsequent events at Kingston, and elucidates the references made by "Ex-500" to "preferred class" prisoners. In the front page column, entitled "The Nation's Business," The Post makes this statement: "There is reason to believe that all of the Big Five group of mining brokers who were sentenced to terms in Kingston Penitentiary have now been released. On the other hand, less than a dozen stockbrokers, convicted earlier of similar crimes, are still serving their terms. Recently the partners of an infamously conducted investment firm were released before half their terms had expired."

"It is well known that the authorities moved reluctantly in taking action against the leaders of the particular mining racket which fortunately disappeared from the Canadian scene in 1929. It was evident, too, that some prosecutions were undertaken only when public opinion forced the hand of the ministers of the Crown. This suggests that back of all these men were ranged powerful influences that found the proceedings entirely distasteful. Can it be that the same influences have had something to do with the early release of the individuals concerned? The Financial Post has, on a prior occasion, suggested as much."

The Toronto Globe says: The Department of Justice should leave no time in complying with the request of the Kingston paper (that the department make a public statement on the matter). It is a matter of common knowledge that the financiers while actually in Kingston Penitentiary were not treated as ordinary criminals but were sent to the Collins Bay Camp, more like a summer resort than a prison, and intended by parliament as a detention place for misguiding boys who had taken but one criminal step. The rumored premature release of the wealthy wrongdoers has caused real concern among those Canadians who are determined to preserve the principle of equal rights for all and special privileges for none.

If reference is to be given to the statements and opinions of "Ex-500," of The Financial Post, of The Kingston Whig-Standard and of The Toronto Globe, it should not be too difficult for the Department of Justice to arrive at one of the principal causes of the riots at Kingston. At the same time it is conceivable that the same "powerful influences" referred to by The Post have effective means in keeping out of the news any blame that might be turned toward them in the investigation, and in directing public attention rather to communists and toilet paper shortages, which the press has given out as amongst the principal causes of the trouble. Even the convict knows that British justice is supposed to be no respecter of persons—men of "higher up" financial buccaners.

PENDER ISLAND

Special to The Times
 Pender Island, Nov. 1.—Fire last week destroyed a farm cottage occupied by Mr. and Mrs. A. Alexander of Port Alberni. Mr. and Mrs. Cromie were absent. The fire has been attributed to a defective chimney. Neighbors had passed the house only a short time before and no evidence of fire was noticed until it burst through the roof. Mr. and Mrs. Cromie suffered loss of personal effects. For the present they and their infant daughter are staying with Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Alexander at the manse.

A substantial shipment of produce was made last week by members of the community to First United Church, Vancouver, to aid the needy of that city. Apples, potatoes, and vegetables made up the bulk of the shipment. A second one will be sent in time for Christmas.

The Women's Missionary Society met at the manse on Friday afternoon for the autumn thank-offering meeting. There was a very good attendance. The introduction to the new study book was given by Miss Margaret Smith. Mrs. S. P. Corbett presided, and the offering amounted to $12. Following the meeting tea was served by the hostess, Mrs. W. A. Alexander. While playing on the wharf at Hope Bay on Saturday afternoon seven-year-old Sybil Corbett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Corbett, was wounded in the calf of her leg when a large fish hook pierced it almost completely. Dr. C. H. West of Mayne Island removed the hook.

Continental European Countries Shake Off Obligations By Deflation

Of the European countries retaining the gold standard, all of them, except the Netherlands, which was neutral during the Great War, have had to reduce the gold content of their coins or have had to down their obligations, according to an announcement on the subject from Ottawa, received by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

"It is evident," the report says, "that except for the Netherlands, none of the continental European countries now on the gold standard has attempted, as the United Kingdom did, to put its post-war currency back to pre-war gold content. They shook off the great bulk of their obligations by deflation long ago and thus are in a position to operate under the gold standard to-day."

The report points out the Belgian gold franc has been reduced from the equivalent of 19.3 cents to the equivalent of 2.78 cents, or nearly six-sevenths.

The French franc, having before the war a gold equivalent of 193 cents, after being on a paper basis down to 1928, was then re-established with a gold franc containing the equivalent of 3.18 cents or only about 26 per cent of the pre-war value.

In Germany the disastrous course of inflation in the post-war years led to the wiping out of all Germany's internal obligations in 1924, and this enabled the gold reichsmark to be established containing the equivalent of 23.25 cents, former obligations being payable at the rate of one reichsmark for one trillion of the old paper marks.

Italy, too, has brought down her lire from the old value of 193 cents to 5.26 cents, being a reduction of nearly 75 per cent.

The Netherlands, which was not in the war but was considerably affected by the war, had to go on a paper standard for a time, but was able to re-establish its money at the former gold content in 1925 at about the same time when the United Kingdom took this step.

EXPORT COST LOWER HERE

Handling Rates on Okanagan Apples Stored Here Below Vancouver

Chamber of Commerce Investigates Alleged Discrimination Against Storage

The Victoria Cold Storage and Terminal Warehouse Ltd. in Reality has an advantage over cold storage in Vancouver in handling costs on apples sent to the three points for export, it was stated in a report on the matter given by a special committee of the Chamber of Commerce to the directors at luncheon to-day.

The details were given in the following letter sent to Duncan MacBride, manager of the local storage plant from the chairman of the chamber's committee:

"In furtherance to our recent correspondence and conversations, please be advised that our special committee to-day conferred with J. O. McEab and E. C. Spaulding, foreign freight agents of the Canadian Pacific Railway and Canadian National Railways respectively, in regard to the possibilities of securing equalization of the export freight rates on apples shipped from points in the Okanagan Valley through Vancouver, New Westminster and Victoria.

"These representatives state that although the rate to Victoria is thirty-nine cents per 100 pounds against 44 cents to the two mainland points mentioned, this city in reality enjoys an advantage over both Vancouver and New Westminster in that costs are 1 1/2 cents less per 100 pounds than Vancouver and one cent less than New Westminster.

NO WHARFAGE CHARGE
This is apparently accounted for through the wharfage charge of fifty cents per ton on apples at both Vancouver and New Westminster, plus a handling charge of forty cents per ton and in the case of Vancouver an additional cargo charge of fifteen cents per ton, whereas these charges are not assessed against a cargo handled by the Victoria Cold Storage plant.

"It is stated by the representative of the Canadian Pacific Railway that out of the thirty-eight cent tariff to Victoria the company only actually received 18 cents against 34 cents to Vancouver, these figures being based on a carload lot. Both representatives stated that if the growers were handicapped in shipping their products, an adjustment of the export rate might be considered. However, such is apparently not the case, and there is evidently no shortage of cold storage space at either Vancouver or New Westminster.

"In view of these conditions, and particularly in view of the present advantage claimed for Victoria, both transportation companies claim that any reduction in the rate to Victoria would be immediately followed by similar demands from Vancouver and New Westminster which they are not prepared to grant.

"Under the circumstances, our committee is of the opinion that it would not be advisable to press for any further action in regard to the matter at the present time."

Women Become House Engineers

Thousands of Them Spend Millions to Lighten Domestic Tasks; 82,000 Washing Machines and 120,000 Vacuum Cleaners Sold in Canada Last Year.

Over 82,000 women in Canada had the arduous work of the Monday wash lightened by the purchase of washing machines during 1931, according to figures released to-day by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Of the number of washing machines Canadian housewives secured, 75,240 were made in Canadian factories at a cost of $6,221,003. Foreign factories shipped 7,774 machines, valued at $601,604. How women have taken to the washing machine to ease the most disliked task on the long domestic list is shown by figures setting out that ten years ago the yearly output of washing machines was only 24,000, against the present figures for Canada of 75,000.

Purchasing lightening of the household tasks was secured through the purchase of electric vacuum cleaners. Over 120,000 extra women joined the ranks of those who have thrown their brooms away to become household engineers. Of that number 107,682 bought Canadian machines and 13,244 bought machines which came from foreign countries, practically all from the United States. The Canadian output was valued at $3,378,123, and the importations at $733,998. Over 50,000 machines valued nearly $2,000,000 were exported from Canada, 93 per cent of them going to the United Kingdom.

MARRIED AT ST. MATTHIAS

Miss Aline Fairweather Becomes Bride of John Emmett Walker

The little church of St. Matthias, Foul Bay, was the scene of a pretty autumn wedding yesterday evening at 7:30 o'clock when Rev. A. G. E. Munson united in the bonds of matrimony Aline Elinor Roberts, elder daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Neville S. Fairweather, Joseph Street, Victoria, and Mr. John Emmett Walker, son of Major J. S. Walker, of Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island. White chrysanthemums and ferns were used in decoration of the altar and the chancel screen. Major W. H. Wattle played the wedding march and Mrs. Colin Cummins was at the organ for the service, during which the full choir, of which the bride has been a popular member, sang the hymns, "O Perfect Love" and "Love Divine, All Loves Excelling."

CHARMING BRIDE

Capt. Fairweather gave his daughter in marriage. She made a charming picture in her floor-length, graceful gown of oyster white flat crepe, the simple bodice finished with a cow neck, the elbow sleeves terminating in a "double frill," the wrap skirt being attached to the bodice beneath the waistline. Her veil of embroidered silk net was caught over each ear with a knot of orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of pink roses and white carnations. Miss Cynthia Fairweather, sister of the bride, was the only bridesmaid, gowned in yellow flowered tulle and floor length, with a cow collar and tiny puff sleeves, with which she wore a becoming hat of yellow felt. The groomsmen were Mr. George Lowe and Mr. T. A. Davies. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Fairweather receiving the guests in a gown of Imperial blue lace, with hat en suite, assisted by Mrs. Tom Dalzell. Pink chrysanthemums were used in the decoration of the room and in silver vases on the supper table, which was centered with the handsome two-tier wedding cake, made and decorated by friends, and flanked by tall pink tapered in silver candlesticks. Assisting in serving were Mesdames Terry, Laird, Wilkinson and Coleman.

Rev. A. G. E. Munson proposed the health of the bride, and Major H. Wattle, speaking of his association with the bride's family, expressed his interest in the possibility of her making her home in Prince Edward Island, where he for a number of years officiated as organist. During the evening vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. B. Deane Freeman, Miss Charlesbois, Miss "Wildfire" Farmer and Miss "Opie" Fairweather. Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding was Mrs. Colclough of View Royal. Mrs. and Mrs. Walker left at mid-night for the mainland, en route for Prince Edward Island, the bride traveling in a smart three-piece knitted suit of jade green and a brown overcoat and hat.

United W.M.S. Of Island Is Busy

The Presbyterian executive of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church met at the home of Mrs. R. W. Mayhew, on Friday afternoon, the president, Mrs. H. J. Armistead, in the chair. Mrs. J. W. Saunby led in a thoughtful devotional service, after which the president gave a report of her trip up-island, where she visited auxiliaries at Ladysmith, Nanaimo, Cumberland, Courtenay, Alberni and Duncan. These were all very optimistic about raising their allocations. She spoke of the fine work being done in the Chinese and Japanese kindergartens in Nanaimo, also of the sixty Japanese children being taught by Mrs. Hewitt in the Sunday school in Cumberland. Mrs. Armistead visited the Indian school at Alberni, where she gave an address to the 115 bright Indian boys and girls who attend that school. The Presbyterian expressed their appreciation of this work, as well as done by the president.

The treasurer's report for the nine months of this year was gratifying. A letter from Mrs. O. M. Brown regarding the work among the Hindu women in Victoria was read by Mrs. J. Hood. Dr. and Mrs. Fraser have charge of this work, and the different families are visited each month by members from the various auxiliaries. Fifty-two Hindu children are taught by Mrs. Brown each Sunday. The executive showed their appreciation of Mrs. Brown's splendid work.

Mrs. G. Guy, Mrs. Perry, Mrs. Green, Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Graham reported for their various departments. Mrs. Laing told of thirteen parcels having been sent out this month. At the close of the business Mrs. Mayhew served tea and the executive enjoyed a pleasant social hour.

Cranberries, like Indian corn, are native to this country and have held a high place among the fruits. In the early days they grew wild on the lowlands of Cape Cod and were gathered for holidays and festive occasions. The Indians believed them to have certain virtues which would prolong life, and regarded them with superstitious awe.

The cranberry of today is a great improvement over the wild berry. Cultivation has doubled its size and improved its flavor. The darker the berry the richer and more delicious is its flavor.

Although there are many reasons why cranberries should be used more freely than they are, one precaution should be kept in mind regarding them. Despite the fact that their ash is alkaline, they tend to increase body acidity. Consequently persons who must guard against this tendency should not indulge too freely in the gay scarlet berry. With this exception, cranberries are valuable for their mineral content, since they are especially rich in iron and are a good source of iodine.

Cranberries keep excellently and unless frostbitten will remain crisp and full flavored for a long time. They are very easy to use, requiring no seeding or paring in preparation for cooking. After thorough washing and looking over for soft fruit, the berries are ready to cook.

Salads, puddings and relishes are delicious and colorful when made with the bright red berries. Sugar should not be added until the fruit is cooked tender. This method produces the finest and most delicate flavor and requires a minimum of sugar. In order to obtain the full value of their nutrients, the fruit should not be cooked too long.

Cranberry sauce and cranberry jelly are traditional with turkey, but you will find the taste of cranberries quite as delicious with roast pork and veal. Cranberry ice often takes the place of sauce or jelly at a formal dinner. Cranberry tapioca pudding is an inexpensive dessert suitable for any simple dinner.

CRANBERRY TAPIOCA

One pound (about 1 quart) cranberries, 2 cups boiling water, 1 cup sugar, 1-4 cup minute tapioca, few grains salt.

Wash and pick over berries. Cook in boiling water until tender, about ten minutes, and press through a fine sieve. Add sugar, salt and tapioca and cook until transparent. Turn into individual molds to chill and become firm. Serve with a garnish of whipped cream.

An oven thermometer which lets you know just how warm it is inside your stove will help you to maintain the temperature needed for various cakes and meats. You will not need this aid if your stove has an oven heat control.

WEDDING INVITATIONS EAGERLY SOUGHT

New York's 400 is scrambling these days for the coveted bits of cardboard that will admit the elite to the wedding November 11, Armistice Day, of pretty Blanche Hooker (left), called "the luckiest girl in the world," to John D. Rockefeller third (right), in magnificent Riverside Church, New York (shown in the center). An invitation to the ceremony or to the reception that will follow is just about the highest recognition of social position there is to be had in the United States.

PRIVY COUNCIL

Toronto Autothess Carries
Plagiarism Suit Against
H. G. Wells to London

Canadian Press
London, Nov. 1.—For the third time in two years Florence A. Deeks, Toronto author, yesterday personally pleaded before a justice for $500,000 damages from H. G. Wells for an alleged plagiarism.

The judicial committee of the Privy Council was this time the body before which the complainant personally laid her charges, but after only a half hour of preliminary remarks the hearing was adjourned until to-day.

Proceedings yesterday were the second sequel of action which commenced in 1923, Miss Deeks is understood to have claimed that through the medium of the Macmillan Publishing Company Limited, Mr. Wells had obtained access to a copy, either whole or in part, of "The Web," a novel which Miss Deeks had written, but had been refused by the publishing company, Mr. Wells was charged with having infringed upon the complainant's copyright by embodying a portion of the theme of "The Web" into "The Outline of History."

It was not until about two years ago, however, that the case was first heard in a Toronto court and at that time after a one-week hearing the charge was dismissed by Justice Raney. About one and one-half years ago the appellate division of the Supreme Court of Canada refused Miss Deeks's appeal and the author left Toronto last February to carry her charges to the Privy Council judicial committee.

An election was held which resulted in the following: Honorary president, Rt. Rev. Gen. C. Murray, C.S.B., Bishop of Victoria; president, Commander V. G. Broder, B.C.N.; vice-president, P. J. Hill, secretary-treasurer, P. A. Feculet, executive, Joshua Smith, A. E. Watson, R. A. Dugal, E. M. Duncan.

A vote of thanks was passed to the temporary committee which had been in charge of the preliminary arrangements, and of the two supper meetings already held. This consisted of Joshua Smith, G. R. Guillemaud, A. E. Watson, P. J. Hill, E. M. Duncan, and P. A. Feculet. A vote of thanks was also passed to the ladies who had assisted so ably in the preparation of these events. It was decided that the next supper meeting should be held on Monday, November 14.

The following were present: P. J. Hill, Captain J. Molloy, L. Pearce, H. T. Pairs, A. E. Watson, E. M. Duncan, A. J. Shilling, B. Duncan, J. O'Leary, C. Johnston, Ernest Phoenix, Geo. L. Kerr, P. J. Crompton, Joshua Smith, J. Harris, O. R. Guillemaud, Gerald Demery, M. McDonald, Paul A. Feculet. Apologies were received from a number of others unavoidably absent.

Embarrassing
For Bridegroom

He Tears Down "Just Married" Signs and Is Snowed Under Confetti.

It was an embarrassing morning for a well-known Victoria man when he returned to work after a short honeymoon this morning. The gentleman stole quietly away and got married last week. Even his closest friends knew nothing about it until they read of it in the papers.

The joke on them, they decided to call for a joke on the blushing groom. When he arrived on the job this morning he found signs, "Just Married," stuck on the walls all around him. With characteristic good nature he accepted the joke and let the signs stay for a while.

Then he decided he had paid the penalty and tore the signs down. They were packed with confetti behind them and the shower burst upon him. A rush call was sent for the janitors, who, however, took their time to responding, hoping that everyone in town would get a laugh at his joke.

Knox Y.P.S. Hold
Banquet-concert

The Knox Church Young People's Society held a very successful banquet and concert Friday evening in the church. The tables were artistically arranged with yellow and orange daisies and chrysanthemums. The hall was also decorated with an abundance of autumn flowers and Hallowe'en decorations. Over seventy-five sat down to a delicious supper. Rev. J. S. Patterson, honorary president of the society, was an excellent chairman. The president, Robert Poulis, welcomed the guests and artists and everything thanked Rev. and Mrs. Patterson for their interest and help in everything that the society plan.

Toasts were given "To the Church" by Ed. McIntyre; replied by Mr. Patterson; "To the King" by Mrs. Kay McIntyre, and one "To the Y.P.S." by Miss Jessie Sutherland, president of the W.M.S.; replied by James Gibbs. A programme was given by the following artists: Soprano solo, "Morning" and "The Lilac Tree" (Gartland); Miss Gladys Marchant; ladies string quartet, "Scotch Airs" (Volit); "High Jinks" (Primi); "Grand Naval Divertimento" (Carl Volit); Mrs. E. Roberts; Miss A. Townsend; Miss C. Buckday and Miss Elsie Friend; tenor solo, "Thora" and "Till Sing The songs of Araby" by Mr. Walter Jones; recitations, "The Circus," "Going to Town" by A. W. Sempie; baritone solo, "Anchored" (Watson) and "The Trumpeter" (Dix) by P. J. Edmonds; sketch, "Which is It?" by Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Sempie; accompanist, Mrs. Len Robinson.

Following the programme a hearty vote of thanks was given to all the artists who assisted in making the evening such a success, and also to the social committee, Misses Louise Patterson, Margaret Roe, Betty Campbell and Agnes Stevenson.

ORCHESTRA AND CHOIR CONCERT

Schubert Club and Philharmonic Groups to Give Joint Recital November 29

An entirely different concert to those that usually mark Victoria's musical season will be given at the Shrine auditorium on November 29, when the Schubert club choir and the Victoria Philharmonic orchestra will combine to give Victoria an outstanding musical treat.

This concert will bring together two of the city's foremost musical directors. All who have followed the activities of the Schubert Club choir and watched with a sense of pride the successive successes of the Victoria Philharmonic orchestra will combine to give Victoria an outstanding musical treat.

Al. Prescott, director of the Philharmonic orchestra, also needs no introduction. He has been identified with the production of a great number of years, and has never failed to receive the acclaim of visiting artists when he has directed musical groups at various operas and other musical shows that have been brought to the Royal Victoria Theatre each fall and winter season.

Both these leaders are now engaged in rehearsing their separate programmes for November 29. In addition to the two programme groups the Schubert Club choir will be accompanied by the Philharmonic orchestra. This is an entirely new departure in musical offerings in this city, and should attract widespread attention.

Chromium-adorned Waving
Machines, Dyes and Dye-
removers Are Displayed

New York, Nov. 1.—Men flocked to Grand Central Palace to gaze in wonder at the transformations effected by finger waves, eyelash pasters, manicures, hair dressers, hair dyes, wig makers and other beauty practitioners at the Beauty and Styles Exposition.

Two blondes seated under a strong light awaiting a set of new lashes drew a crowd of visitors, whose eyes bulged as they saw the platinum-haired woman in charge of the booth give luxurious fringes to the customers' eyelids.

"Will they stay on in the rain?" asked one of the women as she tried her new eye-curlers on a man in the back row, with deadly effect.

"Oh, of course," she was assured. "If you take proper care of them they'll last a long time—months—and if you buy them by the dozen you get them cheaper."

"And if I want to put on a darker pair to match an evening gown, can I do that too?"

So the two customers went away happy, patting their new optical drapery with conscious aim and seemed more than satisfied with results. One man stumbled over a camp chair and almost plunged into a hair-drier as he turned for a second look.

Hundreds of women strolled around the booths, eager to learn the latest trend in make-up and dress. A few harder ones even sat under the new-fangled hair-driers, like ladies in the stocks.

In some booths women had their hair done in the newest way, with grim-looking machines glittering with chromium. In others they submitted dainty fingers for enameling. One of the booths advertised hair dyes for grey hair; another advertised a product for removing dyes. In keeping with the women's privilege of changing her mind.

For Society Day at the show, Mrs. Howard Chandler Christy was there in midnight-blue gown and sables; Miss S. Stanwood Menken in dark green; Miss Marjorie P. Stoddard in light pink and Mrs. Frank Gilbert Owen in black velvet and pearls. A Basco, portrait painter, talked to the visitors on the history of make-up.

On Theatrical Day at the exposition stage stars will exhibit and talk on beauty. There will be a discussion on girdles and corsets, fashions in underthings and a talk and demonstration on "Seven Types of Women," by M. Saksle, Egyptian creator of cosmetics.

SOCIAL, PERSONAL AND HOME INTERESTS

Love Unlocks The Door

By ANNIE S. SWAN

"Well, I had not thought of it. This week I have been going carefully into all the details and returns of the department for which you're supposed to be responsible, and I have found it wanting. I have this very day made other arrangements, and in a week's time the laboratory will pass into other management."

"Whose?" asked Gilbert eagerly.

"Bannerman's in the first instance, but I have engaged a younger man who will work under Bannerman until such time as he is fitted to take the lead."

"And what becomes of me?"

"You will take Walter's place. Walter has finally decided, and I have given my consent for him to leave Bonnygate, and go to the university again to qualify for the medical profession, and to live his own life on his own lines."

"Walter will be a happy man," said Gilbert, who was no stranger to his brother's real ambition. Indeed, when they were younger, and there had been a more brotherly confidence between them, they had often discussed it together.

"You take Walter's place. It requires no special aptitude, and I shall remain in command myself. But in view of your marriage with Miss Inglis I have decided to take you into partnership. It may be that they are quite justified in expressing their dissatisfaction with your present position at the works."

Gilbert flushed all over his face. The announcement was so totally unexpected that it had almost overwhelmed him. Expecting nothing but blame and perhaps punishment, his father's sudden action seemed inexplicable.

"This will improve your position with the Ingleses, and at least," he added somewhat ungalantly, "shut the mouth of your future mother-in-law. I had a long talk with Mary this afternoon. She is a sweet woman. I hope you will be worthy of her, Gilbert. There are many men who would envy you."

Gilbert made no reply, and his father was not reassured by the expression on his face.

"So you will be able to go to the office tomorrow afternoon. They will expect to see you to luncheon probably, and tell them the good news. On Monday we shall draw out the draft of the deed of partnership. Your income in the course of the next six months will be simply sufficient for you to marry and set up in a style with which even your wife's people will be pleased. I wish I saw you look a happier and prouder man, Gilbert."

Gilbert appeared to swallow something in his throat.

"I am overwhelmed, sir," he said thickly at last. "You see, I have never expected anything of this sort; in fact, a partnership seemed an impossibility. You must understand how completely bewildered I feel."

"It is Mary you have to thank, and I hope you will thank her. I hope, too, that when you come back from Mary Place to-morrow you will be able to tell me you have fixed the day. The sooner the better, now that the chief obstacle is removed. There is no sense in a long engagement, and nothing will please me better than to hear that we look forward to a wedding, say, about Easter time."

"I think I'll go to bed. I feel a bit bowled over. I am very grateful, sir, and I wish I deserved it better."

He left the room immediately, and though Horne felt inclined to call him back he refrained. The interview had not been so satisfactory as he might reasonably have expected after the tremendous concession he had made. He sighed as he put out the lights, and went upstairs to bed.

The whole problem was by no means disposed of yet. That was the impression left on his mind. But at least he had done his best to solve it. Other means having failed, he now tried the throwing of heavy responsibility with its accompanying compensations on his younger son, and could only wait results. A sense of duty well done gave him what he needed badly, a sound sleep, and he awoke on the quiet Sabbath morning, awakened in the grounds with the dogs at his heels, and waved to him from the window. They all met at breakfast, and though the subject was not alluded to, was in both the lady's mind. Biddy, as yet unaware of the contemplated change, was bright and happy as usual, rattling on merrily about the experiences of the past afternoon.

They attended the Parish Church of Crumond, walking thither as a family, not one member absent that bright, glorious morning, which had nothing of winter gloom about it. Gilbert was distinctly subdued, and his father liked the attitude, taking it as a sign that he was beginning to realize that life was a bigger thing than he had yet deemed it.

He left them at the church door after service, and they inferred that he had gone to luncheon at Mary Place, as he usually did on Sundays. Walter walked home with one of their neighbors, and Biddy was left with her father.

"Was Gilbert late last night again, and did you scold him, dad? He looked so prim and proper this morning."

"Why, no, not very late, but we had rather a serious talk last night. I had better tell you what is going to happen. Biddy, Walter is leaving the works and going back to college, and I am taking Gilbert into partnership."

Biddy stood still on the crisp path, and stared, her bright eyes wide with wonderment.

"Why, dad, what a tremendous upheaval! But I am very glad, for the boys' sakes. Being a girl I don't understand these things very well, only I know things were wrong. That is why Walter is so quietly jubilant, and perhaps why Gilbert looks so subdued. Yet, why should he? It ought to have made him deliriously happy, for now I suppose he and Mary can be married."

"I am afraid there is something on Gilbert's conscience, but it is my hope that he will get rid of it soon. I have something more to tell you, Biddy. I have offered young Gerard, Gilbert's place, at least it practically amounts to that, after he has had the necessary training."

"Why, dad, you're going at a tremendous pace. When did all this earthquake occur? What brought about the preliminary shocks?"

"Well, the thing has been working towards this conclusion for a good while, my dear, and I hope it will prove a successful arrangement."

"I am so glad for the Gerard, for now Humphrey will not need to go abroad with Bob Inglis. He has been so afraid of it; she would miss him terribly."

"He's not dying to go abroad, Biddy. This will suffice, and I think I shall not regret it. Do you?"

"I am sure you won't. Don't you think he is not a common man, dad? I was surprised when I saw him yesterday, for though Elsie is a dear, she is not distinguished."

"A sweet little girl, though, with a woman's forethought and tenderness. She is wonderful at home."

"Oh, you have seen her there. I have not, you see," said Biddy.

"Yes, that is true. Shall we take a walk this afternoon, you and I, and pay a call there? I would rather like to hear what the captain is saying about things."

Biddy assented with sparkling eyes. And they went on to the house perfectly satisfied with one another, and without the shadow of a cloud between them.

CHAPTER XX

Biddy Horne long remembered that walk with her father on the outskirts of Edinburgh. Never had he been a more delightful companion. It seemed as if all the fret and worry of the last fortnight had completely melted away. There was a boyishness and quiet fun about him to which she was only too happy to respond.

"I suppose it is the spring in the air, dad," she said smilingly, "but we both seem in ridiculously high spirits, don't we?"

He assented smilingly, and in such mood they came to the more sober precincts of the city, where the influence of spring, perhaps, was less perceptible. Directly they came in sight of the block of buildings in which the Gerard lived, Horne observed the blinds all down at their flat.

"Biddy, surely there can't be any trouble," he said quickly. "All the blinds are down."

Biddy looked aghast and shook her head. Involuntarily they hastened their steps to inquire. The street door was open, and they did not wait to ring the bell there, but ascended the stairs at once.

Then Horne knocked softly, both feeling conscious of some tragedy within.

Elsie opened the door. She betrayed no surprise at the sight of them, but smiled wanly, as she rejoined to Biddy's kiss.

"We are in great trouble," she said simply. "My father is dead."

"It is impossible!" cried Horne. "Why, he was in the best of health and spirits the other day we met."

"It was very sudden. Come in. Humphrey has had to go out and my mother is asleep. I am quite alone."

Horne slipped her hand through her arm, and Horne followed them into the darkened room, and they stood still looking at one another almost blankly.

"What was the cause?" asked Horne with a great gentleness. "Was there any shock or seizure?"

"None. Yesterday morning he seemed as well as he had ever been in his life. He had some letters from India which pleased him very much, and he was not out at all until the afternoon."

Her voice broke a little, and she sank into the nearest chair as if her courage had suddenly failed her. Horne stood by with an infinite compassion in his eyes. He seemed to realize in a moment the burden which must now press upon these young slender shoulders.

To her remained now the ceaseless vigil, the care of the helpless creature who was still left, a cumberer of the ground.

"I think Humphrey did say he might call at your house when he had seen to the necessary things. Father will be buried at Warriston Cemetery on Wednesday."

"He appeared quite well last night, you thought?" asked Horne anxiously.

"Oh, yes; only in the morning he said how well he felt, and made the remark that we all should be happier now that spring was coming. He never liked the Edinburgh winters, after India they made him suffer too much."

He certainly looked the picture of health when I was here the other afternoon."

"Oh, yes; he really had very good health, and he was so bright and happy last night and so interested in the happy afternoon we had had. He seemed just as usual when we went to bed. My mother called us about four o'clock, and said she could not wake him. We found that he was dead."

"What did the doctor say?" asked Horne, not yet recovered from the painful shock.

"Oh, quite natural causes. His heart was very weak. And yesterday he had a very long walk while we were at Burton Lea, and came in very tired. But he had quite recovered by the time we got home. You know how late it was, and, as I said, he was very happy for the rest of the evening."

Uncle Wiggily's Hallowe'en

(By HOWARD R. GARIS)

Queer shadows flickered here and there. Strange voices shouted "Boo!" Little paws reached out to pinch and tweak and scurrying feet ran quickly away.

It was the night of Hallowe'en and many wonderful things were happening around Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow.

"I must be very careful not to get fooled," said the rabbit gentleman to himself, who was hopping around with an old straw hat on his head, his ears sticking out of holes in the top. Over his pink nose he wore a false face which Nurse Jane Punny Wussy had made for him out of an apple pie.

All of Uncle Wiggily's bunny rabbits, all the other animal children, Little Bub, the rainbow boy, and Little Bala, the rainbow girl, were out having fun wearing different kinds of false faces. Jingle had the false face of the Bob Cat. Jangle was made up to look like the Fox and Baby Bunty, the orphan bunny, had bought a false face like the real one the Wolf wore.

Besides these make-believe Bad Chaps, the real ones were also out to see what they could do on Hallowe'en. But neither the Fox, the Wolf nor the Bob Cat wore any false faces. They looked just as they always did, tricky, tricky and very unlucky.

The Mt. Newton Parent-teacher Association will hold a bridge and five hundred card party and dance in the school-auditorium on Friday evening, November 25.

HIS BIGGEST BUCK AND PROUD OF IT

Replying to a letter in the local press criticising the high cost of materials in the building trade, members of the Chamber of Commerce interested in that business stated prices in the main were very little, if any, above the costs of production, in a discussion at the directors' luncheon in the chamber yesterday. In the case of lumber and electrical work, the price was in many instances below what it required to produce the goods, members said.

James Parfitt declared the building costs were well down, being lower generally than the costs of living at the present time.

E. C. Hayward stated electric wiring, in some cases, was down at a price below the cost of the material, owing to disorganization in the business.

Plumbing costs were also down, it was said.

LUMBERWAY DOWN

J. O. Cameron took exception to the price given on lumber in the letter written by the protesting citizen, saying that lumber could only be sold at $5.50 a thousand at a small profit. Cameron said that the lumber part in Victoria, he said. The others were closed down. If prices were worth while the mills would be open, he declared. Millions of feet of lumber were being cut, he said. The lumber was ready to sell at prices below production costs. In answer to the charge that building was hampered through high prices, he replied more building had taken place in Victoria during the year than in any other city of the state on the entire continent.

Neah-Kah-Nie Quartette Members and Chamber Or- chestra Will Play Concertos

Those holding tickets for the postponed private recital which was to have been given at Miss Kathleen Agnew's last Thursday evening will be able to use their tickets for the con-ert to be given by members of the Neah-Kah-Nie String Quartette and Chamber Orchestra in the Empress Hotel ballroom at 8.30 o'clock this evening.

The illness of Michael Penha's neuritis, it will be impossible to give another quartette concert here, though Mr. Penha will conduct the orchestra to-night with his left arm in a sling. To fill the gap in the programme made by Michael's inability to render the Boccherini 'cello concerto, Ralph Lansley, pianist with the quartette, will play the Beethoven Sonatas. This will be a decided treat, not only because of the finesse of the solo work, but because Mr. Lansley is a distinguished pianist with a great reputation in San Francisco.

The sonata will come between the Bach double concerto, the solo parts of which will be taken by Susie Pipes and Hubert Sorenson, first and second violinists, and the Mozart E. flat concerto, with Mr. Sorenson and Abraham Weiss, viola, as the soloists.

City to Save Annual Charge By Changing Water Supply For Fire Service

Moving for a termination of the city's agreement with the B.C. Electric Railway Company for supplying power to the city's emergency high pressure water supply on Telegraph Street. Alderman T. W. C. Hawkins, fire wardens' committee chairman, informed the City Council yesterday evening that the connection of the high pressure system to the freshwater supply had been completed.

The work was authorized by the council earlier in the year. It involved a switch-over in which the fresh water was made available for the high pressure lines formerly using salt water.

The council decided to end the agreement with the B.C. Electric under which $820 a year was paid as a standby charge.

A test of the new system will be made shortly, Alderman Hawkins said, inviting the mayor and aldermen to attend.

The pressure under the changed plan is as good as formerly. The salt water supply had been used only three or four times in twenty-three years, he said.

New mains to be laid by the Victoria Gas Company to outside municipalities will benefit some sections of the city, it was revealed yesterday evening when the City Council was requested to approve the locations of the extensions to the company's service.

The mains will be laid from a point on Pembroke Street, along Blanshard, Queens, Vancouver, Bay, Cook and Haultain Streets, then extending south along Richmond Road to Fort Street and to Oak Bay, and north to Saanich. Another branch leads along Graham Street and into the North Quadra district.

The council approved the plans submitted through the engineer's office after some debate in which the liability of the company was discussed. It was decided to secure the company's consent to terms under which the city could ask for relocation of the pipes if necessary in the future and which provided for repairing of the streets affected to the satisfaction of the engineer.

The deer hunting season on Vancouver Island is the best ever, Jumbo Davies thinks. The well-known young boxer has recently taken up this new line of sport and when he brought down the 135-pound buck he is shown packing in the picture it was a huntsman's dream come true. He landed it near Kapoor and had to pack it two miles to his car but it was worth it, he says. He has had the head mounted.

BOARD SEEKS CAMP MONEY

Lieut.-Governor Points to Work Done By Valuable Organization

Unremitting service, ably and generously assisted by the people of many nations, has made the Red Cross movement one of the finest humanitarian endeavors of the world, has ever known. His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor stated in a radio speech over CFCT, as he launched the organization's annual campaign for funds to carry on its splendid work yesterday evening.

"Sixty-eight years have elapsed since the Red Cross began its service to suffering people. In all this time it has steadily gained a stronger and stronger hold on the hearts of men and women in every part of the world," His Honor said.

"Indeed, when the Red Cross was first organized at that famous conference in Geneva in 1864, very few people were present, and the delegates of the fourteen nations, who were represented at the gathering and the little group of gentlemen by whom it was actually founded," he continues, "were all men of the highest rank. Red Cross is known and respected and admired everywhere. And this development is not hard to understand. It is the only organization that has been in year in and year out, in good times as well as bad times, in peace as well as war, in disaster and pestilence and in the midst of the fiercest fighting. It has never faltered on its grand, generous mission to relieve the victims of all kinds of catastrophes. It has brought relief of their sufferings and alleviation of their miseries. It is one of the noblest humanitarian efforts of the world."

"But the Red Cross has been able to do its splendid work only because it has received the support of hundreds of thousands of people who have wanted to be of some service to others. The Red Cross is not something apart. It is an association of men and women of every class of society, of every shade of political idea, of every race and creed and color. It is the universal service club that belongs to all."

CONSTANT SERVICE
"Our Red Cross in British Columbia has been and is playing its part in the general, I think. It has never ceased to serve and assist the sick soldiers in our hospitals. Its contribution to our country's health and to the health of incalculable value to the health of the people of this province. The nursing care it has been giving in the Peace River basin has relieved the suffering of thousands of people. The pioneers who are opening up the great territory. The unique training our children are receiving through the organization. Junior Red Cross schools is making an invaluable addition to their regular education.

"It is our task to see that this splendid work is maintained. The annual conference is being held this afternoon, and I would ask all of you to contribute whatever you can so that the Red Cross service in British Columbia may be maintained and extended," he concluded.

Victorians may send their donations to the local office of the Red Cross at 317 Belmont House.

City Engineer F. M. Preston was instructed by the City Council yesterday to have a report on the condition of Park Street, in the Dardanelles, in regard to the danger existing from the road surface near the street car tracks.

Alderman E. J. Brown moved for the report, declaring it a dangerous condition existed on that section of the street. A bad accident occurred there only a week ago when a car skidded and overturned, killing a woman and a boy lost in the accident.

He also asked for a ruling on the liability concerning the twelve inches of road on each side of the car tracks which are bordered in and where cars pass, he said.

Sum of $250,000 Requested For Homeless Men Relief in British Columbia

The Fordham Unemployment Commission met members of the unemployment-relief committee of the cabinet yesterday. A telegram was sent Ottawa requesting certain details to be elucidated by the federal authorities in respect to financing.

Camp sites, it is learned, have yet to be selected, and the commission will ask Ottawa to forward $250,000 immediately so that actual start may be made on the 20,000 single homeless men in this province. This would be at the rate of $12 a month, agreed upon as a sustenance figure some time ago.

Attractive Decorations Feature Hallowe'en Affair at Empress Hotel Saturday

Over 200 Dancers Enjoy
Popular Function Staged in Ballroom

A number of large parties attended the annual Hallow'e'en supper dance at the Empress Hotel Saturday evening, there being about 300 dancers on the floor of the Crystal ballroom. Orange and black formed the motif in the decorative scheme, which, while not elaborate, was most effective. Silver shafts forming a crescent made a dazzling background for the orchestra and at the sides of the dais were two giant black cats, with electrically blinking eyes and the traditional skeletons and other spooky things.

Subdued light was given by the great crystal chandeliers, which were hung with huge orange and black shades. The tables, which lined the walls, were decorated with streamers in Halloween colors and novelty menus representing bats contained the programme of dance music. Deep-stuffed chesterfields and easy chairs were grouped about the carpeted section at the west end of the ballroom.

Among those noticed were Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Eve, Mr. and Mrs. Art Baker, Mr. and Mrs. John Oliphant, Mr. and Mrs. A. Dowell, Mr. and Mrs. L. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. D. T. West.

Make Sure Of Free Ventilation

Before Applying Lacquer

Gases Poisonous if Inhaled Too Long

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

The wide use of lacquer in the home today calls for a word of warning.

There need be no danger to health involved if a few simple precautions are taken.

The word "lacquer" comes from the Hindu "lac" which describes a resin obtained from the lac tree in the East Indies. All of the varnishes produced in the Orient for Japanese, Chinese and Hindu furniture, houses and similar material used to contain this resin.

Nowadays the term lacquer is applied to coating processes which contain nitro-cellulose as a base, and which nevertheless may be called Chinese or Pekin lacquer.

Lacquers are applied to furniture, automobiles, and other objects by means of a spray gun or dip tank. In industrial work the spray gun and the tank have largely replaced the use of the hand-brush.

However, in homes it is still customary to apply these quick-drying lacquers with the brush, particularly for floors, woodwork, household fixtures, ornaments and lather.

In an analysis of the dangers associated with such lacquer, William J. Burke points out that the volatile ingredients, that is, those which evaporate off as gases, constitute 77 per cent, and that this may be increased still further before use by the adding of thinners.

Lacquers are not dangerous except for the fact that some of the substances which they contain burn easily and explode, and also because they may be exceedingly poisonous to the human body. The nitro-cellulose is of this character.

However, the lacquers are also diluted and thinned by the addition of benzol and toluol, and also of various ethers, amyls and acetates as well as combinations.

All lacquer vapors are poisonous and if inhaled in a sufficiently concentrated state for a sufficient length of time will cause pneumonia symptoms. If not death. They have exceedingly poisonous effects on the blood and also on the tissue of the nervous system. Hence, they should never be used except where ventilation is adequate.

There are records of cases of serious illness and death caused by the use of lacquer in a basement room without adequate ventilation or in garages or in workrooms that do not have proper arrangements for continuous movement of the air.

Because lacquers burn easily and explode, it is desirable that the places in which they are used be kept scrupulously clean. Rags, waste, paper and all similar inflammable material should not be allowed to remain where they may come in contact with the lacquer solutions.

Scottsburgh, Ind., Nov. 1.—(Associated Press)—John Brown reported for jury duty. The first case was Brown versus Brown. Another Brown was awaiting trial. The defendant's wife was Mary Brown, same name as Juror Brown's wife. Juror Brown asked to be excused.

Hollywood, Oct. 31.—"One of the things, Bob, that you people never take into consideration is the cost of experimenting to find actors adequate to their parts."

My statistical friend looked over the rim of his glass and resumed. "Just to relieve your mind, I might remark that the amount of time, effort, films, directorial and stage effort expended yearly equals the cost of down program pictures."

And he proceeded in detail.

When a test is to be made, a 300-foot strip of film is devoted to it. The studio is turned over for the purpose. There must be a capable director. A makeup artist is assigned to the task of beauty treatment. The costume department is opened up. The test is made and while this is being done, business in that particular part of the studio is at a standstill.

In the majority of cases, the tests are fruitless and the "new star" is not found.

In actual footage, the amount of film consumed in tests by the individual studio equals 380 miles.

which is quite an item in itself, to say nothing of the cost involved in the other incidents mentioned.

Then, in addition, it must be remembered that tests are made of established players quite frequently when some sticky make-up is involved.

"And, on top of all this, Bob," my statistical friend concluded, "You must remember that good looks aren't everything. Voice is all important. Education, training, poise, ability—these all count."

But most important of all is that indefinable something known as "personality" that differentiates the popular star from the average player."

THE SUCKING-FISH—A FISH WITH A SUCTION CUP ON TOP OF ITS HEAD, IS USED BY THE CHINESE IN CATCHING TURTLES. A SPRING IS TIED TO THE TAIL OF THE FISH AND IT IS RELEASED IN THE WATER. WHEN THE FISH ATTACHES ITSELF TO A TURTLE, THE FISHERMAN PULLS IT UP.

The sucking-fish, or Remora, is the hitch-hiker of the marine world. When a large shark or turtle comes near, the Remora attaches itself by means of the suction disc, and is carried along. It is not only afforded protection of its large hosts, but also profits by the kills made by them. Old mariners believed the Remora capable of retarding the progress of vessels.

SOME BY-LAWS TOO SEVERE

Restrictions Should Be Removed in Some Cases, Mayor Contends

Some of Victoria's by-laws are designed to protect the health and safety of 100,000 inhabitants and should be amended, Mayor Leeming declared at the meeting of the City Council yesterday evening. Restrictions contained in some measures were too severe, he contended.

This comment was made during a debate over a clause in the report of the fire wardens' committee with respect to the application of the by-laws and additions to a building on Pandora Avenue which did not conform to the by-laws. The committee recommended the application be disallowed in view of the fact that it did not meet the requirements of the law.

Alderman James Adam moved for delay in adoption of the recommendation until the aldermen could have an opportunity to inspect the premises and this provoked an argument, led by Alderman H. O. Littlefield, who claimed the council could not be a party to breaking its own by-laws.

The motion of Alderman Adam passed.

Another plank which appeared in the report of the fire wardens' committee was that of setting off fireworks in street letter boxes. Shortly after 11 p.m., when rain began to fall, the youngsters were ready to rebel and by midnight Halloween was over.

Police received hundreds of calls and took the names of scores of persons using fireworks without permits. Many awnings were burned in fires started by firecrackers. No serious accident or injury was reported.

Police radio cars were kept busy for approximately eight hours, answering 185 calls from one end of the city to the other. Traffic was suspended for some time at Tenth Avenue and Beatty Street where a party placed a number of ties and timbers across the street tracks. A similar incident occurred at Scott Street and Broadway when a telephone pole was pulled across the thoroughfare.

Firemen were bothered during the evening with four false alarms.

CRASH BRINGS $1,000 ACTION

Overtaking Car Cut in and Topped Other in Ditch, Court Is Told

When the motor car of Sidney Linnell crashed on the Sanich Highway and was toppled into the ditch as the car of Mah Sing and Mah Fong overtook it, damage estimated at $1,000 was sustained by the motor and by Emma Linnell, who was riding with Mr. Linnell.

Mr. Linnell explained to the court how both cars were going north. The Linnells were going slower than the Chinese, who overtook them. "But in overtaking the Linnell car they not only passed without giving due warning, but they cut in unexpectedly in front of the Linnell car, which, as a result, was driven into the ditch and was totally demolished," Mr. Linnell said.

Mr. Linnell claimed that Emma Linnell, who suffered fractured ribs, was so badly injured and the shock to her nerves was so severe that she was caused great pain.

Fred Hughes, William Johnson and the two Linnells were called to the stand by Mr. Linnell during the morning session of the trial.

Joseph B. Clearhouse, counsel for the other side, is opening the defence this afternoon.

COOK STILL HOLDS HIS THREE HOUSES

But Mrs. Macdonald and Brydens Win at To-day's Hearing, Forcing New Trial

Jean Olive Macdonald, Robert Bryden and John W. Bryden today continued their court actions before Judge Lampman to force George John Cook of Esquimalt to give up possession of three houses at 500, 502 and 504 Gore Street.

Through their counsel, they claimed Mr. Cook had last spring bought the houses, but had paid only a nominal deposit of a few dollars on them. Since then he had paid nothing more, but in all these months had had the advantage of all the rental proceeds from the properties.

The case in various forms has been before the court for some weeks, with

WORKING FOR MORE MEMBERS

Musical Art Society Out to Attain 1,000 Membership Roll This Season

Encouraged by the keen interest shown in the splendid programmes already given this season, the Victoria Musical Society hope to see its membership, which numbered 708, last year, attain the goal of 1,000 on its roster this season, and an active campaign to that end is being waged.

Mrs. W. A. Jameson, the president, points out that men as well as women will be welcomed into its ranks, there being a number of well-known men on the executive committee. Active membership is not essential to membership, listeners being as necessary as performers to the success of the society. Membership in the parent body entitles the holder to free admission to the fifteen regular programmes, which are presented on the first Wednesday evening and the third Wednesday afternoon in each month.

The junior section of the society is divided into three groups, all of which will meet at New Thought Hall, the juvenile branch, for those under thirteen years, meeting on the second Saturday afternoon in the month; the intermediate, from fourteen to seventeen years, meeting on the second Saturday evening; and the junior branch, seventeen to twenty-one years, meeting on the third Friday evening each month. Each of these branches are under the direct supervision of the senior body.

The parent body is working to establish a scholarship fund and has set aside approximately $300 for this commendable purpose.

YOUNG PEOPLE ENJOY GAMES

First United Church Group Hold Halloween Social; Announcements Made

Games appropriate to the season were enjoyed by more than 150 members and friends of the First United Church Young People's Society yesterday evening at their annual Halloween social. An energetic committee headed by Gordon Robson, assisted by Helen Marsh, Charlotte Crawford, George Gordon and Alex Macklin was in charge of the late Fred P. Busted, afterwards superintendent of the western division of the C.P.R., surveying a narrow gauge railway line from Letbridge to Milk River, Alberta, which was known as the Great Falls and Canadian Railway. The route of that railway to the U.S. boundary extended over 100 miles of prairie territory without a single habitation, the country being covered with roaming bands of Indians and herds of antelope, while the coulees were scattered with skeletons of hundreds of buffaloes, with a good sprinkling of snugglers' outfits here and there. He was the first postmaster on Galliano Island, being appointed to that position in 1894; also provincial assessor and collector of taxes under the Turner administration for part of the North Victoria district, and at that time was the youngest government assessor in the province. Mr. Macklin was afterwards manager of the Wellington Salmon Cannery, Fraser River, owned by R. P. Rither and Co. Ltd., until absorbed by the B.C. Packers' Association. Captain Ian St. Clair, former school physical instructor, will address a meeting of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock on "The Apprenticeship System and Technical Education." The address will be given in the new headquarters of the council in the Hambley Block, at the corner of Government and Broughton Streets. The meeting will be open to the public.

Captain St. Clair will deal with the apprenticeship system, its good and bad points and with the need for proper technical education for boys. The council's headquarters are now in the new location, which was formerly occupied by the Constitutional Club of Victoria.

Parks Staff Put On Part Time

The three-quarter time schedule for outside civic employees was extended to include the parks department yesterday evening by the City Council. The change involves the employment of four extra men. It was the parks committee's report which made the recommendation. Last week the public works staff was placed on a three-quarter time plan, and will work three weeks on and one week off in future.

YOUTHS GIVEN SECOND CHANCE

Suspended Sentence Allowed Boys Caught Stealing Gasoline

Two youths who "tried to make good in a bad way," according to their lawyer, were given a second chance by Magistrate George Jay in the City Police Court this morning.

The pair, Robert Carlow and Robert Neill, were caught in a laundry company's garage on View Street early yesterday morning stealing gasoline. They were convicted of breaking and entering and suspended sentence allowed after a plea was submitted this morning.

P. J. Sinnott, defence counsel, told the court how Carlow had tried to make good when he could not get a job. He had tried to start a motorcycle delivery service, but ran afoul of the law due to infraction of the Motor Vehicle Act. Then he had joined with Neill to start a wood-sawing business. They acquired a gasoline saw but had no gasoline to operate it with, so went to the garage to get some.

Neill, it was stated, had worked for a dairyman, getting up at 3.30 o'clock every morning to go to his job, but found it hard and decided on the wood-cutting proposition. He got an old car to use in the business. His former employer offered to take him back.

"You see," said Mr. Sinnott, "these boys tried to make good, but in a bad way."

When he suspended sentence the magistrate told Neill to sell his car. He said he would recommend suspension of his driver's license until he was able to secure a job in which car driving would be necessary.

"I have had several cases before me recently of young men out of work who are operating cars. It costs money to run a car and when they are out of gas, or need new tires, they simply help themselves," he said. "What they should do is get rid of the machines."

JOHN WATT OF SAANICH DIES

Former Watchmaker Had Farmed in Municipality Forty Years

After a residence in Saanich of forty years, John Watt of "Firbas Farm," West Saanich Road, passed away yesterday afternoon at the Jubilee Hospital, in his eighty-second year. Funeral services will be held from McCall Bros' Funeral Home on Thursday, afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. P. S. Lattrell will officiate, assisted by Rev. W. E. Paly, D.D. Interment will be in Royal Oak Burial Park.

Mr. Watt was born in Scotland on June 24, 1851, and came to Victoria forty-one years ago, taking up his residence at Saanich. He was a watchmaker by trade and shortly after his arrival here opened the "Scottish Jewel Box" on Government Street, near Yates, running it for three years before retiring to his farm at West Saanich Road.

His wife predeceased him in 1927, and he is survived by five sons, George, Alex., and William, all of Saanich, and Edward, at Sonoma; one daughter, Mrs. Helen M. Daly, Seattle, and seven grandchildren.

The City Council yesterday evening was officially notified of the protest made by the Municipal Chapter I.O.O.F., against any proposal to give up the yearly celebration of the birthday of Queen Victoria in the city.

SOUND FILMS FOR CHINESE

Talking Pictures in Native Tongue Within Six Months, Says C. S. Rosset

Talking pictures in the native language will be produced in China within six months, according to Charles S. Rosset, secretary of Hongkong Amusements Ltd., who reached here to-day by the S.S. President Taft en route to New York to select moving pictures for his company's chain of forty theatres.

Hongkong Amusements Ltd. cater to both Chinese and European audiences.

Hitherto, the masses of Chinese have been content with silent pictures of their own drama and sound productions from foreign sources.

In the future they are going to enjoy talking pictures in their own tongue. Some difficulty, it is expected, will be experienced with the many different dialects and the necessity of dubbing the dialogue so that the film can be shown at one performance.

On completing the selection of new films in New York Mr. Rosset will sail for Europe and will return to the Orient by way of Suez.

NEW LOAN IS GOING WELL

Reports Come in on Second Day of Dominion Long Term Issue

Montreal, Nov. 1.—The new Dominion of Canada loan was selling fast, it was reported to-day. More than half the $20,000,000 in bonds was taken up on the opening day of the campaign yesterday. The $25,000,000 short term issue was oversubscribed in an hour. Telegraphic reports received by the loan campaign committee showed subscriptions to the long term issue, which amounts to $55,000,000, had totaled more than $15,000,000 at the close of business yesterday.

Members of the committee, which is headed by Sir Charles Gordon, president of the Bank of Montreal, were enthusiastic as applications continued to pour in to-day. The $15,000,000 figure would be considerably swelled, it was explained, when all reports were received. "Say four weeks" had only been received from branch banks and investment houses.

Toronto Leafs In Great Trim To Defend Hockey Title

"Kid" and Second Forward Lines In Mid-season Form

Primeau and Conacher Bag Four Goals Between Them in 5-to-3 Victory Over Syracuse; Blair, Doraty and Gracie, Bolstering Minor Club, Scored All Their Goals; Paul Raymond, Latest Recruit, Shows Well With Canadiens; Ottawa Senators Put in Lively Practices

Homeward bound from their Kingston training camp Toronto Maple Leafs have satisfied Manager Conny Smythe and Coach Dick Irvin they are fit for the task of retaining the hard-won Stanley Cup and world title gained last season. Proven of the famed "kid" line showed all its expected strength in the farewell exhibition game at Kingston with the Syracuse Stars of the International League.

Bolstered by Andy Blair, Ken Doraty and Bob Gracie of the major leagues, Syracuse were on the short end of a 5 to 3 score. Shifty Primeau scored three goals and gave Charlie Conacher a pass for another goal.

Incidentally Doraty, Gracie and Blair were the Syracuse marksmen, which augurs well for the strength of the Leafs' reserve line. Canadiens whirled through their daily workout with their newest recruit, eighteen-year-old Paul Marcel Raymond, staying up well with the great Howie Morenz and "Black Cat" Johnny Gagnon.

Large crowds are watching Ottawa Senators snap through their lively daily practice. Coach Cy Denneny is satisfied with the condition of his players and plans to concentrate on system and individual play-making. Bert McInnes displayed a hard shot and worked well with Danny Cox at centre and Eric Pettinger on the opposite wing. Eric Pettinger departed from the camp for London, a straight cash deal making him the property of the Tecumseh of the International League.

"HOOLEY" SMITH HOLDS OUT
Eddie Gerard has his Maroons of Montreal almost lined up. "Hooley" Smith had a skate around the ice after the team's regular practice, but is still unsatisfied with the terms offered him. Expectations are that Al Huggins, Earl and Des Roche and Goalie Norm Smith will be sent to the Windsor Bulldogs. Paul Haynes, Earl Robinson, Lorne Duguid, and Johnny Gallagher appear headed for the major circuit. Archie Wilcox, hold-out defenceman, likely will head for the minors.

Lester Patrick is experimenting at the Lake Placid camp with Art Somers between the famous Cook brothers, Bill and Bun, in place of Frankie Boucher, brilliant holdout pivot of that line since New York Rangers entered the National Hockey League. Rangers twice defeated their Springfield farmhands 10 to 3 and 6 to 3, over the week-end.

Official list of holdouts as registered with the National Hockey League governors shows seven players—a good team—on the roll. Earl Selbert and Boucher, Rangers; Reg "Hooley" Smith and Wilcox, Montreal Maroons; Happy Emms and Reg Noble, Detroit, and Aurel Jollat, Canadiens. Several players of other clubs have not yet signed their contracts but are expected to do so shortly.

Detroit, Nov. 1.—"Smiling Jack" Adams, manager of Detroit's newly-christened Red Wings, formerly called the Falcons, of the National Hockey League, is standing knee-deep in hockey players this season, and still he is only faintly optimistic about the prospects.

The trouble, Adams says, is that his mob of bulging-muscled young athletes are all in the doubtful class—this is all except a few of last year's regulars and John Ross Roach, newly purchased goalie.

It all came about when the Chicago Shamrocks of the "outlaw" American League, with the consent of Frank Calder, National League president, agreed to disband and were taken back into the fold of organized hockey. Most of the Shamrocks came to Detroit, and Adams found himself shaking hands with twenty-six hockey players, all desirous of remaining with a team that carried only about fourteen men through the regular season. He even has four goalies.

DETROIT LOST FOUR GOOD MEN WHEN Ottawa decided to resume its franchise this year. The four, Hec Kilrea, Danny Cox, Alex Connell and Alex Smith.

Montreal Maroons Have Bunch Of Huskies

Eddie Gerard, who is managing the Montreal Maroons in the National Hockey League this season, has a weighty bunch of fellows from which to pick his regulars. Those in the above picture are: Top row, from left to right, Marvin Wentworth, secured from Chicago Black Hawks; Archie Wilcox, now the heaviest man on the team; Lionel Conacher, who is in the best condition of his career after a summer's wrestling; "Black" Simpson, newcomer from the Winnipeg Olympics, of whom much is expected; Hughie Plaxton, former Guard, who is trying out for a place on the team; Major John Long, famous physical culture maestro; Baldy Northcott; Lorne Duguid, who has also beefed up a lot; Paul Haynes, to whom the team he played to the title in 1926. Second row, William O'Brien, and Eddie Gerard, back again with the team in vigor and vitality; Faddy Byrne, "forgotten man" kneeling; Al Huggins, up from Windsor full of vim, vigor and vitality; Glenn Brydson, who made an impressive debut his first year out; Johnny Gallagher, who burned up the International League for Windsor Bulldogs last winter, and Dave Kerr, who is slated to go to Philadelphia on loan. Lower row, sitting, Mickey Blake, who hails from Kingston; Jack McVicar; Bill Phillips, the old "Iron Horse"; "Flat" Walsh, also from Kingston, probably telling Bill Phillips the real reason for the Portsmouth riots; Desse Roche; Norman Smith; Earl Roche and Earl Robinson.

JACK WALKER HEADING EAST

Veteran Hook-check Star Still Confident of Making Grade With Some Team

Was Considered Past Master Twenty Years Ago; Helped Victoria Win World Title

Victoria hockey followers will be interested to learn that the veteran hockey player, Jack Walker, has hit the trail east again. "Hook-check" Jack is a man without a team. The other day he said goodbye to his ranch near Seattle, tossed his skates in the back seat of his car and left for other parts.

Walker is well on in his forties and not a hockey player in all the game has a record like Jack. His hockey career began at the age of sixteen and as long as twenty years ago he was classed as a veteran.

Jack is recognized as one of the greatest players in the history of the sport. For years he thrilled Pacific Coast fans with his uncanny ability to break up opposing rushes. He had a very effective hook-check and his ability on the offensive was also well recognized.

Walker came out to the Pacific Coast in the season of 1914-15 from Toronto and went to the Seattle Millionaires. When the Seattle club broke up Walker came to Victoria and helped Lester Patrick's Cougars win the Stanley Cup in the season of 1924-25. When the teams of the Western Canada Hockey League were sold to the N.H.L. in block, Walker went to Detroit. Later he joined the Seattle club in the Pacific Coast League and helped them win many games.

Still full of hope and confidence and with the edge on his skates still keen, Walker has left for new fields to conquer.

FATHER TIME INVARIABLY PLACES DIM ON THE FIRE OF PHYSICAL GREATNESS

Amos Stagg, Famous U.S. Football Coach, Latest to Meet Up With Spectre; Dempsey, Willard, Johnson, Leonard, Speaker, Cobb and Howley Other Outstanding Examples.

By WILLIAM BRANCHER

Those pictures of Stagg . . . haunting in their sadness . . . after it was announced that the veteran football coach of the University of Chicago had been brushed aside by an age limit . . . and his brave declaration that he would carry on in the work of coaching . . . his reason . . . "I went in to athletic work because it offered the largest opportunity for service through contact with young men. No scheme of life which removes that contact would meet with my ambitions."

It is the same old story . . . and I can still see Dempsey, crouched at the ringside during the Schemling-Walker fight . . . nervously, fingering his chin and face, and glancing around with that strange panther look of his . . . and Dan Howley, just before it was announced that he would not manage the Cincinnati Reds in 1933 . . . a tall-end club, the Reds . . . but Dan's team, just the same . . . and his work in life . . . even if they did lose so many tough games by one run . . . they were still his ball club.

WILLARD, THE BOUNCER

Too old . . . it comes to us all . . . the news dispatches carry a little story from Los Angeles . . . Jess Willard, one-time kingpin of the heavyweight fighters . . . reduced in his own Vine street market house to the role of bouncer . . . at a salary that is said to be $15 a week . . . taken to court for a $292 plumbing debt . . . yet how magnificent he must have been that day under the Havana sun when he destroyed the myth of Jack Johnson's invulnerability!

And Willard's supreme confidence in himself at Toledo comes back . . . how he went to a barber shop in the morning . . . and got a shave, haircut, massage and all that . . . while Dempsey sulked in his tent, growling . . .

with a week's whiskers on his tanned and rugged chin.

Johnson himself, a black statue . . . symmetrical perfection . . . a study in ebony action . . . with white teeth shining . . . his destruction of Stanley Ketchel . . . a fight that was framed, in a way . . . in this way, Johnson being supposed to go easy and let Ketchel make a favorable showing . . . the sudden lashing out of Ketchel's fist, as a golden opportunity presented itself . . . and Johnson . . . grinning with fury . . . coming back into the battle . . . and knocking Ketchel cold with a vengeful punch . . . after the fight, in Johnson's dressing room . . . plucking Ketchel's front teeth out of Jack Johnson's glove . . . now, Johnson earning his living as host in roadhouses and night clubs . . . and clowning in front of a jazz orchestra.

THE BURDEN OF YEARS

Too old . . . Benny Leonard . . . sobbing in the arms of Referee Donovan . . . after Jimmy McLarnin's swishing gloves had brought back to the old man the burden of his years . . . Tommy Loughran . . . insisting that he could carry on a while longer . . . after he had been knocked out by men who could not have laid a glove on him a few years earlier . . . and Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker, in their last tragic year of baseball at Philadelphia . . . stumbling around in the outfield . . . pretending that they still had all the qualities that made them the greatest players in the game years before . . . too old!

It comes to all of us . . . Stagg and Dempsey and Willard and Johnson and Leonard and Cobb and Speaker . . . age inevitably dims the fire of greatness. Stagg, in his dreams, can see the great Eckersall . . . streaking down the field . . . Dempsey can see Firpo falling to the canvas under a shower of blows . . . Corbett can see old John L. unable to rise . . . Johnson can see Jim Jeffries, the white man's champion, bowed down under the weight of years and Johnson's own destructive blows . . . Benny Leonard can look back, too . . . and in his reminiscences see Lew Tendler beaten just as he was about to crush the great Leonard, one of the finest lightweights that ever lived.

And Cobb and Speaker can look back . . . to days of brave deeds . . . Cobb matching his cunning against a catcher's wit and arm . . . Speaker running far back to the flagpole and leaping high to spear a drive from Heilmann's bat.

But now, too old . . . never mind, Stagg . . . it comes to us all.

DEMONSTRATION IN CHICAGO

Thousands of Jobless March; Many Police Aid in Keeping Order

Associated Press
Chicago, Nov. 1.—Filling the streets from curb to curb, thousands of unemployed marched through Chicago's Loop at noon yesterday, waving red flags and carrying banners proclaiming their grievances. Converging on the downtown district at its busiest hour, the great parade moved slowly past the city hall in orderly procession. Motorcycle police cleared the streets in their van, and a stalwart negro with arms outstretched held back the throng as it pressed forward, singing and shouting. A thousand extra police guarded against any disturbance along the route. Leaders of the parade had promised order would be maintained. BANNERS CARRIED
"Stop Evictions," one banner read, and others: "Less Police, More Bread," "Vote Communist, Foster and Lord," "Small Home Owners Demand 4 More Cents," "Unemployed Council—We Demand Unemployment Insurance," "We Demand Free Books, Clothing, Food and Shelter."

Police, in issuing the permit for the demonstration, had forbidden the display of red flags, but several appeared near the forefront of the line of march. No effort was made to take them from the marchers. Down Randolph Street, glistening in a cold, autumn rain, the thousands

USING MOTOR CARS
Dallas, Texas, Nov. 1.—(Associated Press).—George C. Smith, general traffic manager for the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railway, believes thousands of Texans are no longer "train conscious." He said a survey in several leading colleges disclosed 30 per cent of the students had never ridden in a railroad train.

London to Build Big Motor Centre

Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times

London.—A "motor centre," which will cost £1,000,000 to construct is to be built in London in the near future, for the use of traders. The building, which will accommodate over 2,000 cars, will rise to a height of 150 feet and will have a twenty-foot covered roadway and pavement encircling it at each floor level. These will be connected by cross "roads" from one floor to another, so that cars may be driven from the ground level to the top, a distance of one and one-quarter miles. The gradients of these cross-roads will increase as cars near the top of the building, in order that hill tests, ranging from one in ten to one in three may be given. The new building will be almost a self-contained "town" for the plans contemplate a mile of shop-fronts along the roadway running round it. In addition a large range of amenities will be provided, including a restaurant, a tea garden, a members' club and rooms in which motor conferences may be held. Investigations are now proceeding with a view to the selection of a suitable site and if the plans go through it is hoped that work on the building may be started in a few months' time. In that event the new "centre" should be ready for use in about twelve months.

Mooresville, N.C., Nov. 1.—(Associated Press).—Two men and a woman were killed near here yesterday when their airplane crashed in a heavy fog. They were identified as Earl Faggett, forty-two, of Lincolnton, N.C., his daughter Ellen, eighteen, and E. L. Eyles, Charlotte automobile dealer.

To-day's Grain Markets

WINNIPEG

(By Logan & Bryan)
Winnipeg, Nov. 1.—Wheat: Market was dull and draggy to-day with prices lower throughout, and on the extreme dip were 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 down from the close last night. The November and May futures established new low marks. There has been very little export business worked overnight, but the market ran into a fair business on the break with sales estimated from 600,000 to 700,000 bushels. This steadied the market, which reacted about 1/2 cent but upturns were rather difficult to hold, despite the fact that prices were in the daily bid, apparently there being plenty of wheat for sale on small upturns.

One prominent Chicago house was a big seller of wheat in Winnipeg, which was understood to be unwinding of spreads. The demand for cash wheat was very slow to-day and only small lots were changing hands. All spreads were about unchanged. Country marketings in the west yesterday were 3,100,000 bushels vs. 2,440,000 bushels a year ago. Winnipeg closed 1 to 1 1/2 lower.

Coarse grains.—For the first time in several months a little export business in rye was reported. However, the volume was quite small. A little export business in oats is going on out of Montreal. Oats closed 1/2 to 3/4 lower. Barley 1/2 to 3/4 lower. Rye 1/2 higher to 3/4 lower. Flax 1/2 lower to 3/4 higher. Liverpool due 1/2 to 3/4 lower, on Winnipeg.

Cunard House Gets Old Sea Furniture
Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times
London.—Luxurious furniture from liners has been used in the decoration of Cunard House, the new London office of the steamship company which has just been opened in Leadenhall Street.

This fact was revealed by H. W. Corry, the chairman, in order to dispel any idea that the company were being extravagant at a difficult time. Some of the furniture, he said, came from the liner Carmania, which in 1914 sunk the German liner Cap Trafalgar after a seven-hour battle in the southern Atlantic. Other pieces came from the Carmania. Both ships were recently broken up.

The building, which will also house the associated Cunard companies, the Anchor Line and the Commonwealth and Dominion Lines, has been almost entirely constructed from Empire materials. There is no elaborate decoration, but due regard has been had for modern efficiency. There is a vacuum plant which cleans the whole building and five of the fastest lifts in London. They travel at the rate of 400 feet a minute.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS

ARBITRATION BOARD

Berlin, Nov. 1.—It was learned from a trustworthy source to-day that General Hans Kautz had been invited to function as Bolivia's appointee on an international arbitration board to act in the undecided war in the Chaco jungles of South America. Bolivia and Paraguay each will nominate one arbitrator, while the third, presumably a neutral, will be jointly agreed upon by both countries.

NEWSPAPER CHANGES

London, Nov. 1.—(Canadian Press).—Ralph D. Blumenthal, famous editor of The London Daily Express, is handing over two of his numerous titles to younger editors on the paper because he feels youth should have its chance and not be held back by "his old fellows." After some thirty years in harness as editor-in-chief and managing director of The Express, he is giving up those titles. He remains, however, as chairman of the board of directors and will continue active supervision of the paper.

WRONG PLACE FOR FEATS

Falls City, Neb., Nov. 1.—(Associated Press).—John Buchholz is eighteen and does not know his own strength. To find out and to demonstrate to several friends he went into a graveyard and pushed over fourteen tombstones. A judge decided to put him in jail for five days and ordered him to pay the cost of restoring the markers.

CONFERENCE PREPARATIONS

Geneva, Nov. 1.—(Associated Press).—Re-establishment of the gold standard was the first topic the international committee of experts tackled when they met here yesterday to pave the way for the World Monetary and Economic Conference scheduled for early next year. L. J. A. Trip, governor of the Bank of Holland, was elected chairman of the committee which was set up by the final act of the Lausanne conference.

NEW CABINET

Czechoslovakia, Nov. 1.—(Associated Press).—A new government headed by Jan Malypetr, Czech Agrarian leader, as premier was in power to-day. He succeeds Frantisek Udrdal, who retired because of illness. The Malypetr cabinet was appointed officially yesterday. Most of the Udrdal cabinet remained intact.

LOFTIEST TOWERS SPAN THAMES

Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times
London.—London's latest landmarks consist of two lofty towers, claimed to be the highest of their kind in the world, which have been erected on each side of the Thames Estuary, near Woolwich, to carry electrical transmission cables across the river.

The towers, which remind one of the Eiffel Tower on a small scale, are 487 feet high—120 feet higher than the top of St. Paul's Cathedral, and 88 feet higher than the spire of Salisbury Cathedral, England's highest building. Built of skeleton steel girders, they are 120 feet in width at the base and taper to a point at the top. Each weighs 280 tons and is reinforced by an anchor tower 1,500 feet away. The span between the two towers measures over 3,000 feet and the cables which are to cross the Thames will carry two circuits, each of 20,000 kilowatts, at a transmission voltage of 132,000 volts.

By night the towers will present a striking appearance, for six illuminated crosses, fixed at intervals up the structure will shine as a warning to aircraft not to fly too near. The towers will play an important part in the "Grid" scheme for the southeast England area, under which electrical current is to be made available to every part of the country. Similar towers, though much smaller in size carrying the electric cables for hundreds of miles, have already been erected throughout the country and are now quite a familiar feature of the landscape.

Taft Helped Along By Western Storm

Good Steaming Time Maintained By American Mail Liner in Port To-day From the Orient

Ship Carried Eighty-three Passengers, 4,000 Tons of Freight and 3,500 Bales of Raw Silk

St. President Taft, of the American Mail Line, docked at the Rihet docks at 7 o'clock this morning, completing her forty-third eastward trip from the Orient.

"Apart from a two-day westerly gale which swept us astern and helped us along, the voyage was an excellent one for the time of the year," said Capt. M. M. Jensen, commander of the ship.

The storm developed when the Taft was two days out from Yokohama, and with the wind astern it was favorable going, although a few green seas were shipped after the vessel escaped any serious fog as she approached the Coast, and was right on schedule when she steamed into the bay at William Head early to-day.

Hallowe'en was celebrated yesterday evening when the passengers made merry at dinner and on deck on the final day at sea.

Freight Is Good
Freight consignments are being well maintained. It was stated aboard the President Taft, there being 4,000 measurement tons stowed in the ship's holds, the feature shipment being 3,500 bales of raw silk.

The passenger list totaled eighty-three, there being seven in the first class, eleven tourist cabin and sixty-five in the third class. Prominent passengers aboard the President Taft included Alfred Massenet, managing director of the Franco-Asiatique Banque at Paris, Manchuria, who is en route to Harbin, France; E. A. Pearsall, manager of the Victor Talking Machine Company in Japan, with headquarters at Yokohama; Charles S. Rosset, secretary of Hongkong Amusements Limited, en route to New York to select new pictures for his chain of theatres in China; accompanied by Mrs. Rosset; Miss Margaret H. MacGregor, school teacher employed by the Shanghai Municipal Council, who is on furlough, and will visit her home at Havant, Hants, Eng.; Shigenori Togo, Japanese diplomat attached to the Japanese embassy in Berlin; Mrs. A. T. A. Mc-Nicol, Shanghai resident, en route to Scotland, accompanied by her son, Duncan; Yu Lien-Ah of Hongkong, who is bound to the United States to study law and will spend some time in Chicago; en route to Ore.; Mrs. Priscilla W. Davis, wife of a U.S. naval man stationed at Olongapo, Philippine Islands, who is returning to Spokane, Wash.; Mrs. Mae C. Esley, en route from Shanghai to Denver, Colo.; Miss Margaret L. Lewis, Presbyterian Board missionary at Kobe; Miss Florence Todhunter, of the South Canadian hotel in China, en route to Oak Park, Ill.; Ansel Orlikoff, Harbin fur merchant, bound to New York; Benjamin Rocklin, proprietor of a car wash in Tianjin, en route to Brooklyn, N.Y.; Albert Wong, Mrs. Geraldine Gott and Mrs. Gertrude Louis, bound to destinations in the United States after a tour of the Orient.

CHANGES IN PERSONNEL
The President Taft arrived with a new chief steward, J. W. Telgren, formerly with the Western Line, who succeeds William J. Simmons. Mr. Simmons has taken over the management of the Army and Navy Club at Manila. Mr. Telgren joined the Taft from Manila to Kobe the dining saloon was in charge of E. J. Roberts, second steward.

After discharging part cargo here, including rice and general Oriental merchandise, the American Mail liner cleared at 10 o'clock for Seattle.
